Perrines Bridge...Vandalism a Problem

Historic Perrines Bridge which spans the Wallkill River at Rifton came under close scrutiny this week when Ulster County crews of the county's Emergency Employment Program started a cleanup project at the site.

The 128-year-old span has again been the object of vandalism including the adjacent mini-park area and repairs and preventive measures were necessary. The current work project was organized through the efforts of Robert C. Josh Randall, EEA administrator and Legislator S. Robert Kelder, R-Dist. 2.

Legislator Kelder noted that vandalism in county parks throughout the nation has become a major problem with the vandals not realizing that they are destroying their own property and wasting tax money that could be better spent.

In addition to littering of the park area, several picnic tables were stolen and another thrown into the river. Also one by six feet boards were tipped from the structure.

Legislator Kelder, who is chairman of the legislature's Recreation and Youth Committee said further facilities for the mini-park had been planned such as fireplaces. The matter of refuse overflowing the containers for that purpose has been solved. The County Highway Department is now making regular pickups. The planks will be replaced.

The county's EEA crew is currently installing concrete footings to which each picnic table will be bolted.

Special

The 135-foot span has been the object of vandalism several times in the past. In 1968, the entire structure was threatened by fire. Inflammable liquid was poured on the wooden plank flooring and set on fire, according to a police report. Quick response by Rifton Fire Company volunteers saved the historic structure from extinction.

Restoration of the span, circa 1844, had been in the planning stages for 40 years before the Perrines Bridge Committee brought the plight of the site to the attention of the County Legislature.

In 1968 the County Legislature approved a $36,600 grant with matching funds from the State Historic Trust amounting to $25,000. The span is a prime example of Burr truss construction. After restoration was completed a dedication ceremony was held June 29, 1969. Standard Bridge Corp., Albany was the low bidder and awarded the construction contract.

Prior to that time the condition of the bridge nearly caused it to fall into the river and Cross Country Construction Co., Albany was hired to start emergency repairs.

In the major restoration project four 30-foot arch beams were installed. The timber was delivered from a mill near Jersey City, N. J. The search for pine trees of sufficient girth and bow for replacement timbers culminated when William Suplee of High Falls, a lumberman, found the trees in the Hurley Mountain area. The felled trees were milled in New Jersey. The decayed flooring was also replaced.

A parking area and picnic site was developed from property made available by the Culinary Society of New York and Central Hudson Gas and Electric Corp. Perrines Bridge is the second oldest in the state. The only covered bridge older is the one in Glimmerglass State Park at the north end of Otsego Lake, upstate. This one was constructed in 1830.

City Garbage Crisis Looms, Landfill Site Nearly Filled

By HUGH REYNOLDS

KINGSTON — The City of Kingston, piling up garbage at the rate of 110 tons a day, is rapidly approaching one of the most monumental crises in its history. Its landfill operation at Kingston Point has a life of at the most two years and after that there will be literally no place to put the garbage.

"The crisis is upon us," Herbert Hekler, director of the Ulster County Planning Board, said Monday night at a meeting of some 100 persons at the Senior Citizen Residence of Benedictine Hospital. The panel discussion was sponsored by the Kingston Chapter of the League of Women Voters, following a six-month study of refuse problems in Ulster County. Joining Hekler on the panel were John Powers of the Ulster County Department of Health, Charles J. Cole, Kingston's superintendent of public works, County Legislator Melvin Mones (R-Kingston) and Alderman Edward M. Norton (D-11th Ward), chairman of the Common Council's Environment Protection Committee.

Cole agreed with Hekler's assessment of the city situation, noting that the landfill operation at Kingston Point was opened in 1964. Cole said that at the time, the city hoped to reclaim 10 to 14 acres of land from the tidal flats. "We thought we could continue into the tidal lagoon but we were turned down by the state in 1967," Cole said. "It's very doubtful if we'll ever get approval for that." Cole said that the city will run out of space at Kingston Point "at the end of 1973 or perhaps early 1974." "We have no place to go in the city limits," he said. "At the moment, we're banking heavily on a regional plan." Regional planning was thoroughly discussed by both Hekler and by Mones, who chairs the Public Health Committee of the County Legislature. But as indicated by statements last night, there will be a good deal of time between the studying of a regional plan and its implementation — perhaps two years—time the city cannot afford.

As far back as 1968, Mones said, the County Legislature realized the refuse situation was something that could not continually be ignored. The county secured a $117,000 planning grant for the state, hired the firm of Manganaro, Martin and Lincoln and received a thorough study of the county's 21 refuse collection centers by early 1970. The results, according to Hekler, "were very dismal." "With very few exceptions," he said, "most weren't viable for the long run."

The study recommended sanitary landfills and offered three proposals. One proposed a single site to serve the county, south of Kingston, in the area of the Callanan stone quarry. Proposal number two suggested two sites, one north of Kingston in the area of the Hudson Cement stone quarries and one in the Rochester-Wawarsing area. The third proposal suggested three sites, one north of Kingston (at Hudson Cement), one at New Paltz and one in Wawarsing.

The problem, as Mones quickly found out, was that no one wants a landfill in their area. "When it comes to solid waste, people develop geographic myopia," Mones said. About a year ago, Mones said, he "threw up a trial balloon" by proposing that the Legislature study the feasibility of establishing a solid waste authority or commission which would have authority to establish county landfills. That trial balloon was swiftly shot down. Mones said, when word leaked out that plans called for those landfills north and south of Kingston in New Paltz and in Rochester-Wawarsing. "We got just what we hoped for," Mones said. "We couldn't do much more after the first uproar. We notified public officials that the report was available, that it was vital and that they should study it."

Norton said last night that he had never heard about the report. Mones replied that it had been delivered to Mayor Francis R. Koenig early in 1970.

As things now stand with the county, Mones said his Public Health Committee "is prepared to submit to the Legislature at its July meeting, legislation creating a county-wide environmental council which will encompass all environmental problems. We feel that solid waste proposals and studies that have been made should be made available to it, since they will have excellent representation from all towns (and the city), from throughout the county. They should set high priority towards the implementation of a solid waste disposal program."

All that is going to take time. "It would be extremely optimistic to see a committee or commission get ready in a year or two years," Mones said. "and time, as indicated last night, is against the city.

The panel discussion was preceded by a film, "The Trouble With Trash," which depicted ways in which other cities are fighting their refuse problem. That was followed by a slide presentation showing various county landfill projects, including the city of Kingston. The city and the towns of Hurley and Saugerties got generally "good marks," but the towns of Ulster project came under heavy criticism. League members who were on the scene said that there was no evidence of daily coverage of refuse as required by law, and that the trash adjoined a swamp and was apparently polluting it. A dead rat was pictured at the "sanitary landfill."

'Gen. Abrams Knew About Raids'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — An Air Force general abruptly removed from his command in Vietnam, demoted and retired, testified Monday that Gen. Creighton Abrams knew he ordered raids on North Vietnam which at least technically violated long-standing U.S. policy.

"I believe General Abrams knew what I was doing," said former four-star Gen. John D. Lavelle.

But Lavelle told congressional investigators Monday he was "positive" that Abrams, the commander of all U.S. forces in the war zone, did not know that the strikes were being inaccurately reported to the public. Lavelle, 55, a native of Cleveland, commanded the U.S. 7th Air Force in Southeast Asia from his Saigon headquarters. In March he was ordered home and retired with the recommended rank of lieutenant general, one grade below his active duty rank.

The Air Force Chief of Staff, Gen. John D. Ryan, told the House Armed Services investigating subcommittee that he sent an inspector general to Vietnam after he heard allegations that unauthorized air strikes had been conducted in North Vietnam.

Ryan said the inspector confirmed on March 23 that 147 aircraft had conducted unauthorized raids during 28 missions and over a three-month period. "General Lavelle admitted to me that he had executed a small number of such strikes to attack military targets, reported as protective reaction," Ryan testified.

Hanoi observers believe North Vietnamese Communists will continue offensive. Story on Page 32.

Lavelle testified that he "chose to make a very liberal interpretation" of bombing rules starting in January this year. The rules at the time limited U.S. bombardment to "protective reaction" raids against such targets as anti-aircraft weapons that fired at U.S. reconnaissance planes.

Lavelle argued the strikes were necessary to counter a Communist air defense buildup and stepped up infiltration of North Vietnamese troops southward across the Demilitarized Zone. The period preceded the start of the North Vietnamese offensive into South Vietnam.

Lavelle said that if he had it to do over again, "I would do the same thing."

On the war front, American B52s pounded Communist supply caches today in a sixth consecutive day of raids inside North Vietnam and Navy jets blossoming fireballs as they blew up an oil storage complex near the port of Vinh. In the continuing heavy pace of the air war, U.S. planes flew 290 tactical bombing missions and B52s carried out six raids inside North Vietnam in the 24 hours ended at noon. Another 21 B52 strikes were flown in South Vietnam along with 284 tactical bombing missions.

Pilots from the Midway hit the petroleum storage area three miles north-northwest of Vinh, 137 miles above the Demilitarized Zone (DMZ).

"An extremely large secondary explosion with a huge orange fireball," was reported by pilots leaving the Yen Dai area, the U.S. command said.

DAMAGED BAGGAGE DOOR—Detroit police look at the damaged baggage door on an American Airlines jetliner after an explosion in the baggage compartment shortly after the airplane took off from Detroit's Metropolitan Airport headed for New York. (UPI TELEPHOTO)

Pilot Lands Crippled Plane; ... 'God Was His Copilot'

DETROIT (UPI)—An American Airlines pilot safely landed his crippled jetliner carrying 67 persons at Detroit's Metropolitan Airport Monday night, just moments after a "decompression explosion" ruined his landing gear and steering mechanisms and left him without radio contact.

Ten persons, two of them stewardesses, were taken to nearby Wayne County General Hospital. They received minor injuries during an emergency evacuation of the plane after it landed.

The explosion happened just 10 minutes after the plane had taken off from the same airport and was gaining altitude over Ontario.

It was first reported that a bomb exploded in a rear baggage compartment of the huge DC10, but airline officials this morning said a cargo door opened at 12,000 feet, causing the decompression explosion. "Because the airplane was pressurized decompression with a loud sound occurred," an airline spokesman said.

The spokesman also said airline personnel had inspected the cargo compartment doors on the entire DC10 fleet and all were found functioning properly. Signal lights aboard the crippled DC10 had indicated the cargo compartment door was closed and latched normally at takeoff, the spokesman said. The pilot, Bryce E. McCormick, a 28-year veteran with American Airlines, gained control of the aircraft, brought it around and turned back to Detroit.

The plane, with the door blown out and a main engine shut down, waddled back and forth, on and off the long runway for more than one-half mile before it came to a rest with its right wing dipped into the grass by the side of the strip.

A normal landing, airport officials said, takes one-third the distance.

The explosive force of the decompression would have been greater at higher altitudes, but it ripped off the four-by-six-foot left rear cargo door. A coffin in the rear baggage compartment fell through the hole and then 12,000 feet to the ground.

Authorities praised McCormick's skill in returning the damaged airliner to the airport.

"God must have been flying as his copilot," a sheriff's deputy said. "How the hell he brought it in, I don't know."

Said Deputy Robert Ruelle, Ruelle said the pilot brought the plane down "with no brakes, no rudder, no ground steering and no radio contact at the end."

15 Minutes on the Edge of Death

DETROIT (AP) — For about 15 minutes Monday night, 67 passengers aboard an explosion-crippled DC10 jetliner hung on the edge of death.

When a blast ripped through a cargo hold of the plane shortly after it had taken off on a flight for Buffalo, N.Y., a piece of a hatch flew up and struck Loretta Kaminsky of Buffalo in the face.

"The first thought that went through my mind was that I was going to die," she said later. "There was stark fear among the passengers, but no panic," her husband, Allen, said. The blast opened a 15-foot hole in the floor of the coach lounge at the back of the plane. But the seat belt light kept passengers in their places and the lounge was unoccupied.

"There was a big whoosh, a swooshing and then the cabin filled with smoke and the ceiling—different parts of it—came down and the floor came up," Joyce Bigelow, 26, of Buffalo, said. "My first feeling was terror. There was some noise, but there was no confusion."

"The interesting thing was the behavior of the people," said insurance executive J. Kenneth Wylie of Springfield, Mass., who was seated in the coach section near the blast site. "It was most remarkable."

The passengers credited the calm performance of the crew in averting panic among the passengers.

American Airlines put the passengers up in airport hotels for the night. Most of the passengers were willing to fly again in the morning and made reservations for continuing flights.

PREPARE FOR FESTIVAL — Shop students in the New Paltz Middle School put finishing touches on projects to be displayed at the Festival of Arts to be held Thursday June 15, 7:30 p. m. at the school. The final Parent Teacher Organization meeting of the school year will be held 7:15 p. m. prior to the festival. Discussion of next year's budget and election of officers will be on the agenda.

Sickle Cell Mobile Unit Now Operating in County

KINGSTON — Dr. William C. Taylor, Commissioner of the Ulster County Health Department, announced today that the IBM Kingston facility, in conjunction with his department, would provide a mobile van to accommodate those people who wished to be tested for Sickle Cell Anemia.

Dr. Taylor stated that many black people, who are principally affected by the disease, have been unable to visit the Ulster County Health Department for one reason or another so the mobile van should provide a convenience and opportunity to those people.

Dr. Taylor stated that "over 500 Sickle Cell tests have been given to residents already but that there are still more we want to reach." He said that "Sickle Cell Anemia is not contagious but an inherited disease with no known medical cure, however, research and education are increasing to help find a cure for this disease." Dr. Taylor further stated that "IBM is to be commended for this most worthwhile program in assisting us reach those people we normally might not contact."

Sam Wilson, an IBM employee, is coordinating the program and will be working with IBM nurses and volunteer help. Dr. E. S. McKay, staff physician at IBM, was also instrumental in getting the program started. The program will get under way today at the Ellenville Central School. Wilson said that additional dates and stop locations for the mobile van will be announced at a later date.

Voter Registration Drive Underway For Highland School District Budget

HIGHLAND — A drive to register the approximately 5,000 voters of the Highland School District will be undertaken immediately in hopes of passing the newly proposed school budget on June 29.

At a meeting of the Highland Board of Education Monday night it was pointed out that only 905 persons voted in May on the $3,465,809 budget which was defeated.

Supervising Principal Donald Bain said today that presently only 2,306 of the 5,000 eligible voters are registered and it was decided to organize committees "for passing the budget."

The board's new budget proposal of $3,478,474 is $12,000 higher than the recently defeated budget. This is due to recent teacher salary negotiations, Bain said.

He also indicated that there is, nevertheless, a possibility of a tax cut because of a recent change in the tax rate. When the first budget proposal was submitted, the tax rate was $186.20 per thousand of assessed valuation. The new rate, Bain explained is $168.15, a drop of $18.05. He points out however that 95 per cent of the assessments in Lloyd have increased meanwhile and the many school district residents of that town may not experience any decrease in school taxes. Five committees for registration were organized with the following chairman: public committee, Joseph Ladue, chairman; registration, Mrs. Cynthia Lee, chairman; typing committee, Mrs. Joan Davison, chairman; car pool and naby sitting committee, Mrs. Helen Marsh, chairman; telephone committee, Frank Canino, chairman.

A hearing on the budget has been set for June 26 at 8 p.m. in the Highland Middle School. The vote on the newly proposed budget will take place June 29 from 2 to 9 p.m. at the Middle School.

Bain said that voter registration is taking place daily from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. in Central Administration and will continue to June 20.

Registration will also take place Wednesday, June 21 from 3 p.m. to 9 p.m. in the Middle School.

The 1972-73 school budget was defeated May 2 when 637 voted against it and only 258 for it.

Following that vote, the board met to decide whether to put another budget up to the voters or adopt an austerity budget.

City Schools Budget Hearing Set

KINGSTON — A public hearing on the proposed budget of the Kingston City Schools Consolidated will be held Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. at the George Washington School.

Taxpayers and residents of the local school district will be given the opportunity to question any portions or items in the budget, and make recommendations to the Board of Education for any changes.

The proposed budget will be presented in detailed form at Wednesday's meeting. It is expected that each category will be presented and explained.

The proposed budget totals

$16,548,232, and includes a tax levy of $7,690,032. While the total budget is lower than last year's, the tax levy has increased because, according to the Board of Education, the district expects to receive less state aid this year, and because overall revenues are expected to drop.

The budget that will be presented Wednesday is tentative; changes may be made before the board approves the budget in its final form at its regular June meeting.

Board of Education members will be on hand Wednesday to answer questions concerning the budget.

Services Underway For Flood Victims

RAPID CITY, S.D. (AP) — Burial of Rapid City's flood victims began today in three cemeteries while survivors continue the search for the dead.

Individual graveside services will be conducted for the identified victims who died late Friday and early Saturday when rain-swollen Rapid Creek erupted through this city of 43,000 persons in the shadow of the Black Hills.

"The services will probably go on for at least a week," said a funeral director. A mass memorial service is scheduled Sunday at a local high school.

Civil Defense reported Sunday that the death toll stood at more than 200, but on Monday it said the toll was 175. However, newsmen counted 161 identified bodies and 31 unidentified, a total of 192. The toll was expected to climb.

A spokesman said duplication of reports and confusion caused erroneous reports. Officials said some bodies were moved to nearby communities Sunday when three Rapid City mortuaries used as temporary morgues became overcrowded.

The Omaha (Neb.) World Herald reported in today's editions that two cloud-seeding experiments were conducted Friday in the Rapid City area, one of them about 5 p.m., an hour before the devastating rains began.

The experiments were conducted by the Institute of Atmospheric Sciences, South Dakota School of Mines & Technology "for increasing water supply and studying the dynamics of hail production," the copyright article quotes an unnamed federal official as saying.

The newspaper quoted Prof. Arnett Dennis, chief of the institute's meteorological analysis group, as saying the experiments "had totally and absolutely nothing to do with the storm that hit Rapid City. I would stake my life on that."

As the cleanup and search continued at Rapid City, Maj. Gen. Duane L. Corning, commander of the South Dakota National Guard, said, "Guardsmen have been finding bodies all day. It will continue for days and days."

Mayor Donald Barnett said he believes many bodies were washed downstream and never will be recovered. Farmers in outlying areas were asked to search their properties for bodies.

Barnett imposed a 9 p.m. to daylight curfew for the third day.

IRA Escalates Bombing Campaign Amid Peace Signs in N. Ireland

BELFAST (UPI)—The Irish Republican Army (IRA) stepped up its bomb campaign today amid growing signs that a Roman Catholic women's peace effort has started to spread to Protestant neighborhoods.

In the British Parliament, William Whitelaw, secretary of state for Ulster, reacted to the escalating violence by pledging a tougher stand against both Protestant and Catholic gunmen.

The first step in this direction, he said Monday, would be the immediate dispatch of another 550-man battalion of British soldiers to Northern Ireland, boosting troop strength there to more than 15,000.

A British army spokesman said that suspected members of the Provisional IRA set off seven major bombs across the province within the past 24 hours, injuring 13 civilians. He also reported a riot in the rural town of Strabane and at least two shooting incidents.

A soldier wounded in Sunday's fighting died at a hospital, raising the toll from seven days of increased violence to 12. He was the 77th soldier and 376th person killed in three years of Ulster strife.

The continuing violence coincided with indications that residents in Belfast's Protestant communities were distressed by the bloodshed.

The Ulster Women's Unionist Council drew up a peace petition for circulation in Protestant neighborhoods, and the politically powerful Grand Orange Lodge of Belfast called on all Protestants to beware of politicians preaching violence.

"Make sure your leaders are men of principle and not just servants of a political party," the Lodge, a highly respected Protestant organization, said. "Beware of politicians who incite you to take up arms."

The militant Protestant Vanguard Movement issued a similar statement, saying that the Protestant vigilantes who set up barricades over the weekend had been infiltrated by undesirable elements.

"Vanguard does not condone the destruction of property or intimidation," the statement said.

The Catholic campaign prompted the official wing of the IRA to call a cease-fire, but the IRA provisionals refused to agree.

Hoffa Lists 26 Ways To Improve Penitentiaries

WASHINGTON (AP) — After four years and nine months in a federal prison, former Teamsters President Jimmy Hoffa has told Congress 26 ways to improve federal penitentiaries.

Without elaborating in his testimony prepared for a Senate subcommittee, Hoffa said: "I have seen useless destruction of property, maiming of human beings, loss of self-respect, and inhumane treatment."

"The causes are not one-sided, but much of this can be cured by proper planning and education on the part of the prisoners and the officials of the institution."

Noting that prisons are overcrowded and have an average age of 75 years, he said the antiquated ones should be torn down and new ones built that are smaller and more comfortable.

Job training is out of line with reality, he added, with "license plate and mop bucket manufacturing" two examples "that bear little relation to potential jobs in private industry."

"It is not for humanitarian reasons alone that we must reform our corrections system," he said. "It is for our own safety. We have never faced up to the facts that most convicts will someday be released from the hell-holes we call correctional institutions. They come out, as we have seen, more bitter, more disturbed, more anti-social, and more skilled in crime than when they went in."

Hoffa said he realized that budget money for prisons did not enjoy the highest priority, but he called for:

—New prisons holding no more than 350 people, with individual cells "to retain some adequate, comprehensive medical and dental care, libraries, recreational space.

—Movies with more general appeal "rather than... sex movies, and crime movies, which create nothing but problems for a majority of the prisoners."

—Better guard training, sufficient counseling and case workers, and prisoner grievance boards.

—Visiting hours that are not restricted by number of visits per week, with a proper place, with seats, for a prisoner's visiting family.

—Unrestricted mail and telephone privileges, providing the prisoners pay for their calls.

Prisoners should receive a minimum wage for prison work, with an active job procurement program to secure work for them when they get out, he said.

McGovern Campaigning In Upstate New York

NEW YORK UPI — Sen. George McGovern, campaigning for the block of delegate votes that would put him close to a first-ballot Democratic presidential nomination, heads into upstate New York today for appearances in three cities.

A crowded schedule called for McGovern to visit Syracuse, Buffalo and Albany before returning to New York City, where Monday night he said "the center is moving to us," rather than he moving to the center.

Several leading Democrats have told the South Dakotan that, to unify the party behind him, he would have to shift somewhat from positions they regard as too radical. Yet, many of the supporters who backed him from his start as a lonely long distance runner would regard that as a betrayal of the reasons why they supported him.

"I'm being advised every day by the pundits and my own advisers to move to the center," McGovern told 3,000 residents of a housing development in the Bronx.

"But it's been demonstrated in one primary election after another that the center is moving to us."

That apparently was an effort to quell reports that, in the past week, McGovern had told party leaders he was willing to compromise his stands on tax reform and welfare in an effort to assure a first ballot victory at next month's Democratic National Convention.

New York's 278 delegate votes comprises the largest bloc at the convention. A convincing victory in New York—where McGovern has estimated he might get about 200 delegates—would put him only about 200 shy of the 1,509 votes he needs for nomination.

Capping a hectic day of campaigning, McGovern also told the crowd at the huge, co-op housing development that he was committed to Israel's independence.

One heckler, referring to McGovern's unrelenting opposition to the Vietnam War, shouted, "If you sell out Vietnam, when will you sell out Israel?"

"If we deny aid to a corrupt military dictator in Saigon, that's no reason to deny aid to a democracy like Israel," McGovern answered. "If I am president, you can have no doubt about my commitment to an independent Israel."

The crowd, many watching from patios and windows of high-rise apartments, generally met with enthusiasm his comments on this and his attacks on tax loopholes and defense spending.

McGOVERN IN NEW YORK — Sen. George McGovern (lower R), campaigning for New York's rich 278-delegate primary addresses a noontime crowd of about 3,000 in Brooklyn's Borough Hall Park June 12. McGovern said he did not consider the possible draft of Sen. Edward M. Kennedy a threat to his winning the Democratic nomination. (UPI Telephoto)

Hopes to Beat McClellan

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (UPI)—Arkansas Democrats today choose between 30-year Senate veteran John L. McClellan, 76, and a handsome young congressman who says 76 is too old for the job.

McClellan was in the hazardous spot of being an incumbent in a runoff primary election in Arkansas—a situation that has traditionally ended political careers. He failed to win a majority in Arkansas' May 30 party primary, and is opposed by Rep. David H. Pryor, 37, in the runoff. It is the second time

McClellan found himself in a runoff. He won his Senate seat in 1942 after defeating a former attorney general in a runoff for the Democratic nomination. Incumbents rarely have won in runoff elections in Arkansas.

McClellan, the fourth-ranking member of the Senate, received 45 per cent in the primary to Pryor's 41 per cent.

McClellan has campaigned hard against Pryor's labor support and suggested that the southern Arkansas congressman would be controlled by union "bosses" if he wins the Senate seat. He said "out-of-state labor bosses" had "plotted my defeat" and Pryor was their candidate.

The senator said labor has been trying to defeat him because investigations by his Senate permanent subcommittee on investigations had uncovered crime in unions. He notes that evidence uncovered by the investigations was used to convict Jimmy Hoffa of the Teamsters Union and that the Teamsters are supporting Pryor in the race.

Robbery Suspect Caught After Chase

NYACK, N.Y. (AP) — Three gunmen robbed $250 and two guns from the Tappan Zee Inn and Restaurant early today, but later had to abandon their car when a Haverstraw policeman chased them into a dead end street at Jones Point.

One suspect was captured and the money and two guns were recovered, police said. A state police helicopter and dozens of local and state police, equipped with bloodhounds, began combing the wooded hills just south of Bear Mountain for the two other men.

Police said the three entered the restaurant about 3:30 a.m. and tied up the night clerk and the banquet manager. The two freed themselves and called police who put out an alarm.

Police said Haverstraw patrolman Pat Cassidy spotted three men in a car bearing North Carolina license plates and chased them at high speed up Route 9W until they turned into the dead end road.

A GREAT BUY IS ONLY A GREAT BUY IF YOU CAN BUY IT.

A good deal isn't going to wait for you to get the money. So we've created a checking account that lets you borrow simply by writing a check.

It's called Line of Credit. Our way of lending you up to $5,000 anytime, anyplace.

With a Line of Credit checkbook, you can write yourself a loan whenever you need extra money. So if you come across an opportunity that won't wait, you won't have to wait. Just write a check.

You don't have to worry about filling out a new application every time you use it. And you don't have to worry about getting in over your head, either. We won't let you do that.

Every month we'll send you a statement showing just how much you've borrowed. You can pay it back all at once or just a little at a time. Naturally, you only pay interest on what you borrow.

We think money should be there when you need it. After all, a great buy isn't a great buy if you don't buy it.

Funeral will be held Wednesday at 10 a.m. at Loucks Funeral Home, Ellenville. Burial will be in Fantinekill Cemetery, Ellenville. The Rev. John S. Armbricht of St. John's Memorial Episcopal Church will officiate. Friends may call at the funeral home today 7 to 9.

Marlborough Town Board Tabs Chief

MARLBOROUGH
The Marlborough Town Board met in regular session Monday night and appointed James Eckard chief constable, replacing John Mataraza. Chief Eckard's appointment was retroactive to June 1. Previously, he was an Ulster County Sheriff's deputy before coming to work with the town as a constable in January of this year. Mataraza will remain a town constable. "Personal reasons" were cited for his decision to step down as head of the town's police force. The board, according to Town Clerk John H. Woodward, also discussed zoning and the apparent consensus of opinion among townspeople that the law requiring a minimum two-acre lot for home construction should be reduced to one acre. Woodward indicated that action would be taken on that by the town board in the very near future.

TODAY'S THOUGHT

By JIM GILPATRIC

Father's Day questions — for everyone in the family... Is Dad "around the house" as often as he can be, or is he "around town" when he could or should be home? How often and for what length of time does he talk to and/or play with his children? Do the children joyously anticipate such meetings or do they feel and/or say "Dad spoils everything"? Does he arbitrarily feel the fact of fatherhood automatically entitles him to love, respect and obedience of his children? Does he make a conscious effort to help instill attitudes, qualities and traits he desires in his children — or does he usually leave that task to mother? To what extent does he show qualities of integrity, morality, humor, compassion, patience and understanding? Is he more generous with material things than the giving of himself with love and time? Does he avoid tensions and hostilities in the home? Is he proud of his children? Are they proud of him?

In our opinion, most Dads (by a large majority) measure up pretty well on this sort of score card. We salute and honor them on Father's Day...

American Literary Genius Dies of Heart Attack

TALCOTTVILLE N.Y. (UPI)—In 1963 Edmund Wilson, one of America's great men of letters, said death was not far away and "my mind and emotions and vitality will disappear like a puff of smoke."

But Wilson outlived his prediction by almost a decade and his mind remained very active as he won a number of awards in the interim and only last year produced a book which was nominated for a national award.

The eminent critic, novelist and sometime literary curmudgeon died here Monday of a heart attack. He was 77.

A daughter, Rosalind Wilson, said he had been sick for the last two years and his death was not unexpected. The end came "quick and easy" in the old stone house where Wilson wrote his material on yellow lined pads.

The house and its resistance as well as its spiritual and physical surrender to the ravages of time was the inspiration of Wilson's last book, "Upstate," published in 1971.

In 1946, Wilson, an eloquent and articulate spokesman on the subject of literature shocked censors with his best-selling novel "The Memoirs of Hecate County."

Sale of the book, which contained some graphic love scenes, shocking by the standards of the time, was banned in New York State. The ban boosted sales in the rest of the country.

In 1962, Wilson, a portly man with a high-pitched voice wrote, "I'm not really in America. I take so little part in what is happening there, and have so little sympathy with it."

Nevertheless the following year Wilson won the Presidential Freedom Medal, the nation's highest civilian award, and in 1966 he won the publishing industry's national medal for literature.

Dutchess Chairmen Congratulated

RHINEBECK

Northern Dutchess County chairmen of the recent American Cancer Society drive in Dutchess were congratulated by G. Bradford Davis, county chairman, for their help in attaining the 1972 goal of $98,600.

At the recent annual meeting of the Dutchess County Unit, Davis announced that the goal has been realized and $99,000 has been raised. He expressed his appreciation to the more than 4,000 crusaders who rang doorbells in the house-to-house campaign.

Thanks were extended to Mrs. Helen Battistoni, Rhinebeck Chairman, where $1,543.10 was collected; to Mrs. Lorin S. Pease, Red Hook Chairman, where $2,031.61 was raised; and to Mrs. Sidney W. Byron, Milan Chairman, where $205 was contributed.

Dinner Plans Finalized

KINGSTON

Plans for the black graduates dinner were finalized at Monday night's regular meeting of the Ulster County Chapter of the NAACP, at the New Central Baptist Church on the Strand.

Mrs. Ethel Billups is chairman of the dinner which will be held at the Gov. Clinton Hotel on June 23 at 7 p.m. Thirty-eight black graduates will be honored with their families.

For the first time, graduates of Ulster County Community College and the State University College at New Paltz will be included. There will be 38 in all, 32 of them graduates of Kingston High School, the largest black graduating class in the school's history, according to NAACP President Everette Hodge. Twenty of those high school graduates have made application to colleges, Hodge added, "a very encouraging sign."

Traffic Meeting

The Mid-Hudson Traffic Club will hold its monthly dinner meeting Wednesday at Aloy's Garden Restaurant, Garden Street, Poughkeepsie. Guest speaker will be Allen Mills, director, New York State Department of Correction who will speak on the Department of Correction's role in transportation.

Meanwhile, the driver of the car, a stunned 20-year-old Karen Rabinowitz, stood by helplessly as the fight continued. She was later treated for shock at Benedictine Hospital.

Police eventually quieted the melee. Chief Waterous said Kostraub later told police that he thought the women were going to attack his wife and baby.

Mrs. Parker and Mrs. Rabinowitz were taken to Benedictine Hospital by Doctors Ambulance, where they were treated for cuts and bruises.

Kostraub was charged with third degree assault, arraigned before Town Justice Kevin Sweeney and released in his own recognizance for a hearing June 23.

Blaze Under Investigation

KINGSTON

Police are investigating a reportedly incendiary blaze that damaged the roof of a three-story frame and brick building at 196 First Ave. early today.

The alarm was sounded at fire headquarters at 4:13 a.m. today. Upon arrival, firefighters found a portion of the roof of the unoccupied building involved in flames. The fire was doused by an inch-and-a-half pump stream from Engine No. 1.

The building is owned by Louis Berardi of 42 Hooker Street.

Four pieces of apparatus were back in service at 4:48 a.m. today.

Patrick R. Purvis, 20, of P.O. Box 45, Eddyville, was cited for failure to keep to the right after his car reportedly swerved off Route 32 and crashed into a telephone pole at 6:30 p.m. Monday.

The Ulster County Sheriff's Department said Purvis was traveling north on Route 32 when his car reportedly crossed the center line. He then swerved back to the right side of the road to avoid an oncoming car. Purvis was not injured in the crash.

Board Votes to Ratify Rondout Valley Contract

KYSERIKE

The Rondout Valley Board of Education Monday night voted to ratify the tentative two-year contract agreement with the Superintendent of Schools Rondout Valley Teachers Association, but also directed Superintendent of Schools Robert Robertaccio to restudy the district budget to determine if the board can afford not to eliminate three teaching positions.

At a special meeting called specifically to ratify the agreement with the teachers, the board heard comments from a number of district residents who questioned a proposal to eliminate three teachers. Last week, the Board of Education said such a measure would be necessary so that the district could afford the terms of the new teacher contract.

Robertaccio was directed to examine the budget to determine if cuts could be made elsewhere so that the teaching positions could be maintained.

According to the District Clerk John Basten, several residents proposed during the first hour of the meeting that the board try to avoid reducing the district's teaching staff, and it was suggested that a referendum be held to raise the additional money if cuts could not be made in other areas.

The Board of Education called an executive session at 9 p.m. to discuss the matter. When the special meeting was resumed, Mrs. Ann Coler moved that the teachers contract be ratified. It passed by a 6-2 vote, with board members Carl Grassi and Morris Felsen objecting.

The teachers association, however, has yet to ratify the agreement, and its president, Peter Hengstenberg, said Monday that ratification was "doubtful" if the Board of Education continued with its plans to eliminate the three teaching positions.

It is now expected that the RVT will wait until Robertaccio reports back to the board on his budget examination before any ratification vote is taken.

On Monday, Robertaccio said that the Board of Education and the district administration "does not eliminate teaching positions arbitrarily." He added, "I'm sure we would restore any positions any time we could afford to."

Woman Patolman... Hearings Set to Begin

PORT JERVIS, N.Y. (AP)

Should a 5'4", 21-year-old young lady be allowed to walk the streets alone at night, cruise around tough neighborhoods and possibly confront unruly males that outweigh her by 100 pounds?

Those will be the questions when hearings begin next Monday at Orange County Court in Goshen in the suit of Allyson Wagner of Port Jervis, who has been barred from donning the uniform of a city patrolman.

The court suit resulted from a recent ruling by the Port Jervis Civil Service Commission which dismissed Miss Wagner's application for employment on grounds that she did not meet height qualifications for the job.

New York State requires patrolmen to stand at least 5'7", a qualification disputed by Miss Wagner's attorney, who contends his client should only be required to meet female standards. And such standards apparently have not been set.

Besides the height controversy, Port Jervis Police Chief Frank Masonati is opposed to Miss Wagner riding around on night patrols unescorted—which the job would require.

Miss Wagner's attorney, Hubert Levy, claims 1,307 citizens of Port Jervis disagree with their police chief and other city officials.

Levy produced that many signatures Monday night petitioning that the young woman get the job. The city has a population of about 9,000.

Among those backing Miss Wagner's career ambitions is her father Warren Wagner, a lieutenant on the city's police force.

Miss Wagner holds a degree in police science.

Right Program Is Scheduled

NEW PALTZ

The Knights of Columbus Council 5800 of New Paltz will present a Right to Life program Thursday 8 p.m. at St. Joseph's Church Hall, New Paltz.

A Time to Listen

Now that he is three-fifths of the way to the Democratic nomination for President—900 delegate votes out of the needed 1,509—it is time to listen to Senator George McGovern and discover what he's up to. We say that because California showed people were turning out and cheering the senator from South Dakota, for his anti-everything stand. Even his dullness was charisma in reverse.

McGovern threw so many figures at people that his main rival, Hubert Humphrey, was able to charge him with favoring massive welfare spending and higher taxes. McGovern, the one-time teacher, went to the blackboard to analyze his spending. If folks were listening, they must have seen the weirdness of it all. They couldn't have been listening in California.

For the hub of McGovern's economy is that he will pay every man, woman and child $1,000 a year irrespective of need. On the face of it, that would be the biggest and silliest give-away of all time. For 210 million people, $210 billion. That is two-thirds of the current budget.

Where would McGovern get this huge fallout? Why, he'd take it from the people who need it most: By abolishing the $8 billion federal share of welfare programs, the $10 billion planned increases in Social Security benefits, the $750 exemption in income tax returns—he figures this will raise $63.5 billion, though tax experts dispute this estimate—$17 billion in tax loopholes, and $20 billion cutback in military spending. That is $118.6 billion McGovern would take from the needy to give to the rich and others, leaving $91.4 billion to be raised in new taxes. The Senate Finance Committee staff put McGovern's economics to the test and came up with a net cost of $51 billion, still a pretty big sum to find in new taxes.

I. W. Abel, president of the Steelworkers union, told 1,800 delegates to the Ohio state AFL-CIO convention, "We simply cannot afford another four years of Nixon." When he realizes what McGovern proposes, will he be able to afford four years of McGovern?

In other words, the business community is listening to McGovern, as the labor community must. If together they can awaken the people, maybe the senator's ideas will be found out for what they are—economic bankruptcy.

Beefing Up Offensive

The Soviet-United States accords limited the number of land-based and submarine-launched missiles the two super powers can deploy in the next five years, but they imposed few restrictions on qualitative improvements in offensive missiles. Since defense, in which the Soviet is ahead, is well protected, the United States must concentrate on offense. That is the background of the real battle in Congress, not the confirmation of the two treaties President Nixon brought back. Their overwhelming approval is conceded by all concerned.

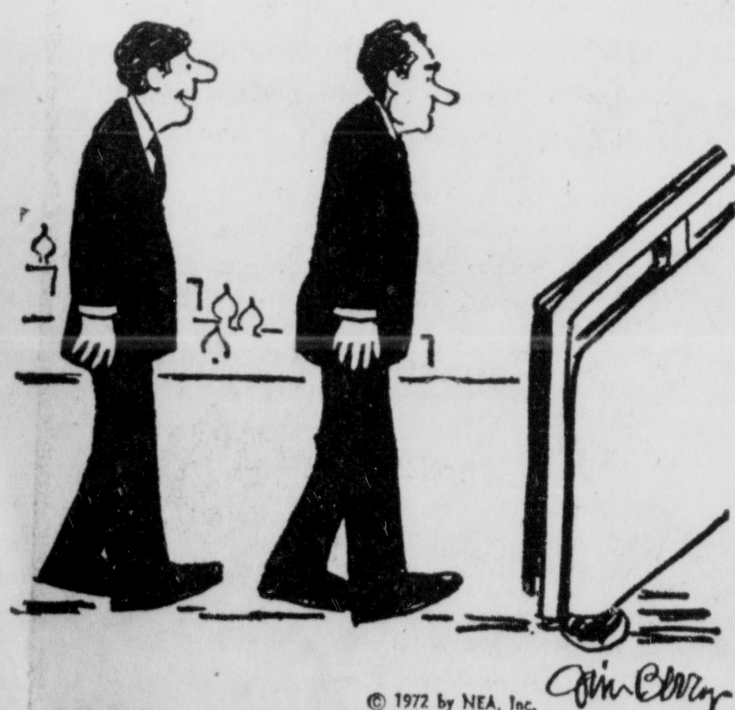

Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird, supported by Admiral Thomas H. Moorer, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, opened the fight for modernization of the offensive strategic forces in testimony before both houses of Congress. Laird said he could not support the arms control agreements unless Congress authorized the improvement. This was in keeping with the President's statement to Congress the night of his return from the Soviet, that he would take "all necessary steps" to assure that "none will be stronger" than the United States.

It is because the SALT talks froze the number of offensive weapons that it is now necessary to, in Laird's words, "maintain a realistic strategic deterrent" during the freeze. Despite misgivings about the numerical superiority granted the Soviets, our military leaders support the agreements, provided the modernization of strategic offensive forces could proceed.

To offset the Soviet buildup, the Chiefs of Staff would develop the Trident, designed to replace some of the nuclear-powered Polaris-missile submarines; and produce the B-1 super sonic bomber, designed to replace the B-52. This program would cost $1.2 billion. Senator John Stennis, chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee, made the strongest argument emphasizing the need for modernization, when he said, "It is simply too important, for us to take any chances."

Jack Anderson Says

The FAA and Opportunities

WASHINGTON — Many companies keep men in Washington to watch for opportunities to divert some of the government's multi-million-dollar spending into their corporate coffers.

Few are more able than "Knut" Knighton, a fast-moving slick-talking Washington operator, who represents a Dallas-based firm called Resalab.

Knighton's pursuit of government business led him into a fast friendship with Hohn Mercer, a $36,000-a-year official, who was in charge of the Federal Aviation Administration's air traffic control development.

The two men frequently got together at restaurants, golf courses and other social spas. Sometimes they took business trips together.

Knighton also steered his new friend into Resalab's social circle where the government official quickly became popular with the company's chairman, James Lawson, and president, George Cramer.

When Mercer needed a $10,000 loan, Lawson obligingly put him in touch with the National Bank of Commerce in Dallas. The prestigious bank gave Mercer the $10,000 without security and Resalab's Cramer and Lawson signed a guarantee for the loan. When Mercer's wife needed airline tickets for Sarasota or San Francisco, Knighton paid for them with his credit card. The friendly Resalab man used the same credit card to pay Mercer's bills during a golfing weekend at the plush Del Monte Lodge, Pebble Beach, Calif.

Mysterious Check

My associate Les Whitten, who has spent weeks investigating the Mercer-Knighton relationship, also turned up a $220 check made out to Mercer and signed by Knighton. It was endorsed by Mercer and his wife.

Merced claims he merely cashed the check for Knighton and also repaid his friend in cash for the airline tickets. The accommodating Knighton, meanwhile, arranged a trip to Dallas for Mercer's aide, Neal Blake. Knighton paid the $176 air fare with his ubiquitous credit card and housed Blake in the Resalab president's guest house. Blake tells us he later paid it all back.

All the while Knighton was assiduously courting Mercer and Blake. Resalab had a $154,300 study contract that Mercer's staff helped to administer. The company also had its eye on some juicier FAA plums, such as a multi-million-dollar navigational system contract.

Ralph Nader's Aviation Consumer Action Project, which has been probing the FAA, has cooperated with us in the investigation. In a letter to FAA Administrator John Shaffer, the Nader group has charged that the Mercer case illustrates the utter failure of FAA's research programs and overall "poor procurement practices."

"It seems inevitable," declares the letter, "that some of the recent failures of the FAA were not merely the consequence of incompetence or inertia, but of fraud, undue influence and conflict of interest as well."

The FAA has now been spurred into action against Mercer and Blake. Mercer was cited by a hearing examiner for "gross indiscretion," and Blake received a private reprimand. Afterward, Mercer quietly resigned with full pension rights, but Blake is still on the payroll.

A federal grand jury is also taking testimony in the case. This may explain the silence of most of the principals. Cramer had "no comment." Knighton, Lawson and Shaffer couldn't be reached despite repeated attempts.

Merced would speak to us only through his lawyer, James Hill, who told us: "Everything John Mercer did was proper and ethical." And Resalab's lawyer, Ray Besing, insisted: "The loan to Mercer had nothing to do with any dealings of Resalab with FAA."

Footnote: The FAA has kept the Mercer file under lock and key. One participant in the proceedings confided that the secrecy isn't so much to protect the rights of Mercer as to shield even higher FAA officials from public disclosure of their mismanagement.

Headlines and Footnotes

Brezhnev and Jews—President Nixon raised the Jewish question with Leonid Brezhnev during their secret Kremlin conversations. The Soviet leader explained it was awkward for the Kremlin to permit Soviet Jews to emigrate to Israel where they could be drafted to fight against Russia's Arab allies. At the President's prodding, however, Brezhnev agreed that Soviet Jews would be free to emigrate to the United States.

Sick Leave—Ralph Ladd, an engineer in the Federal Aviation Administration's navigation division, is traveling around the world. Near retirement, he is taking his wife on a second honeymoon. A recent postcard from Hong Kong said they were having a wonderful time. There is only one problem. Ladd is on sick leave from his job.

Israeli Intelligence—The Israeli intelligence network under Lt. Gen. Ahron Yarov is justly famed as the best in the Mideast. Veteran newsman Seymour Freidin reports in his new book, "A Sense of the Senate," that Yarov was in a Tel Aviv restaurant when a telephone call alerted him to the death of President Gamal Nasser. Not only did Yarov's agents inform him of the death before the announcement, but Yarov was able to predict within minutes when Cairo Radio would broadcast the news.

Bruce Blossat Says

HHH Victory Strategy

HOUSTON (NEA) On the eve of the year's last great spate of primaries, key operatives of Sen. Hubert Humphrey offered newsmen one of the most unusual strategies for nomination to the presidency that anyone anywhere has advanced in recent times.

The plan, spread before reporters in some detail, assumed Humphrey's defeat by Sen. George McGovern in all of the last five primaries, including those in huge California and New York with their enormous clusters of national convention delegates.

But, says Humphrey aide Michael Maloney, the senator's strategists believe McGovern will be left short of first ballot nomination, that he cannot in the intervening weeks acquire the necessary added delegates to reach a winning 1,509, and that Humphrey himself will enjoy a resurgence which could nominate him by a fifth ballot at Miami Beach.

In fact, says Maloney, the Humphrey planners decided last December that no candidate would be nominated by the Democrats on the first ballot this time and that their whole effort should be geared to the idea of a multiballot convention.

The notion is unique, in the light of modern nominating history. From 1932 through, the two major parties together held 20 national conventions. Sixteen of them were settled on the first ballot, a couple required three ballots, one went to four and another to six.

Only the four-ballot affair, Franklin D. Roosevelt's first nomination at Chicago in 1932, had any of the earmarks of a true deadlock, and it was broken by quick trading. The other multi-ballot outcome was the late Adlai Stevenson's initial nomination in 1952.

The Humphrey team's view of 1972 plainly is that McGovern, despite his remarkable upward burst since his first primary win in Wisconsin this April, has no fresh potential and no prospect of developing crucial delegate reserves.

Maloney figures that, giving McGovern 210 of New York's 278 delegates in the final primary on June 20, the South Dakota senator's first-ballot peak will have been reached at around 1,258 delegates. The contention is that he'll never go higher.

Humphrey is seen as polling a strong second, with some 922 votes on the opening round. The disabled Gov. George Wallace is placed third with 357, and the diminished Sen. Edmund Muskie fourth at 167.

Humphrey's initial total, says Maloney, will include what he has in hand plus 290 strong "probables" and 284 votes said now to be uncommitted.

Curiously, the Humphrey planners do not spell out in specific numbers how he will rise from ballot to ballot until he is nominated—or Muskie is reborn as a winning alternative. But they do say flatly that McGovern will lose 63 votes on the second ballot, 102 on the third, 120 on the fourth, dropping him to a level where he will thereafter be out of the battle.

The Humphrey calculations that lead to this unique strategy are complex. They assure no big push behind McGovern at the critical phase, a great stir at the convention among women, young, and blacks who may not now exhibit strong loyalties to candidates, and a basic sturdiness and resilience in time-tested Hubert.

The most unusual of these assumptions is that there is no such thing as a bandwagon, no momentum for McGovern in winning big.

Martin Nolan Says

McGovern's Image Problems

Never mind reuniting North and South, reconciling reformers and regulars, bringing together black and white. What about a candidate who can reunite Simon and Garfunkel, Mike Nichols and Elaine May or Peter, Paul and Mary?

These performers are the attraction this week at a Madison Square Garden fundraiser at which the only speaker will be a former B-24 bomber pilot, a former Methodist minister and a former history professor at Northwestern University.

George Stanley McGovern is the unlikely icon of the counterculture. If he begins enjoying the role, he may be in a deeper fog of trouble than his own tax program.

Several McGovern advisors are distressed for some reason with their man's plans to retreat to the Black Hills of South Dakota for a month after the Democratic National Convention. They seem worried over lack of "exposure" for the would-be nominee.

But South Dakota may be the best thing McGovern has going for him—a state of placid, conservative plainness, a vision of far-off safety and tranquility. In all those debates in the California primary, the most telling point McGovern made in his own defense is that his home state "doesn't ordinarily send wild-eyed radicals to the United States Senate."

For a man awash with the affections of the California film colony, the last thing McGovern needs right now is the bright glare of Broadway. Celebrity status and a show-biz patina are the penalties for picking up all those delegate votes.

The scene is the foyer outside the Hollywood Room of the Wilshire Hyatt House as the votes in California have been finally counted. Secret Servicemen dutifully stand outside the doors to keep reporters away from the movie stars and millionaires inside.

McGovern arrives and spends an hour talking to his big-name supporters. As they leave, the parade shows ample reason for keeping the session secret. There goes a Xerox millionaire, a lumber magnate, an automobile heir, followed by Jack Nicholson (who always plays a disagreeable drifter in his movies), followed by Goldie Hawn and Robert Vaughn. A few local black ministers try to get in and are barred by the Secret Service. Then Hugh Hefner bugs out, accompanied by Playboy's Miss December or Miss January (it's tough to tell when she's clothed).

These people give and raise money. In all likelihood and in the aggregate, they take away votes.

McGovern has always seemed a self-contained man, inner-directed in the now-venerable phrase of David Riesman. His strength this year has been that the newspapers' "radical" portrayal of his personality has evaporated once voters listened to him.

If McGovern is surrounded by a jet-set aura of radical chic, his appeal is diminished. He will be running against Richard Nixon, who has his own movie stars, of course—John Wayne, Ronald Reagan, et al. But they are wrapped in the American flag, not in the afterglow of Woodstock Nation.

This problem probably seems minor to McGovern himself, since his "radical" image seems to him a concoction of the columnists. But unless he holds a month-long summit conference in the Black Hills with the Alsop brothers and Evans and Novak, the problem may persist.

The McGovern campaign has not been exclusionary so far and has already made inroads in the black and Mexican-American community. To go farther toward hope for November, McGovern has to appeal to millions of blue-collar white ethnics who are at best indifferent to most movie stars and who don't really care whether Simon and Garfunkel are grooving again.

Vocalist Singing Here on Friday Summer Wedding Plans

Renowned vocalist, Terri Francis, will perform in a Jazz Concert Friday, June 16 from 8:30 p.m. to 1 a.m. at Governor Clinton Hotel, Kingston. She will be accompanied by the talented M.T.A. Trio in a vocal excursion through the land of jazz, pop and blues music in a cozy nightclub atmosphere.

Terri Francis received rave press notices from Chicago Defender, Michigan Chronicle, the Oregon Mirror, New York Courier and Jet Magazine. She has appeared in cities and night clubs from New York to California from north to south as well as famous resorts, hotels and bungalow colonies in the Catskills.

A native New Yorker, her professional career began in Chicago, Ill., where her work with various groups and orchestras brought her to the attention of agents and club owners.

She has made several tours of the country. These trips included benefit performances at hospitals, prisons, army and navy bases, and eventually a U.S.O. tour of Alaska, Hawaii, Japan and Europe.

A background of choir work that began in her very early years and ended in a brief stay with the famed Hall Johnson Singers, gives her a solid foundation on which to build a unique style of singing and an "individualistic" way with a song.

Good audience rapport and an extensive, varied, well-prepared repertoire makes her equally at home in nightclubs, intimate lounges, theatres, supper clubs or concerts.

Her genuine love for people and her deep love for music is easily spotted in her performances. She has a way of making each listener feel that her song should be just for him or her.

Among her accomplishments are performances at the renowned Karam House Theatre in Cleveland, Ohio and at the Summer Theatre at Fordham University. In October of 1965, Annual Productions of New York City Presented her in concert at Judson Hall. Her many benefit shows and performances for civic organizations have proven that she can hold her own as a mistress of ceremony.

Terri Francis is married to Carroll Jackson, a professional saxophone player and a music instructor at New York State Eastern Correctional Facility at Napanoch. They reside with their three children at Governor Clinton Apartments.

A reception and dance will take place after the dance. Tickets will be available at the door.

Mr. and Mrs. John L. Coleman High School and College of St. Rose, class of 1971. She is a teacher in the City of Troy School System.

Her fiancée, an alumnus of Siena College, is employed by New York State Board of Youth in Troy.

The bride-elect was graduated from John A.

A summer wedding is being planned.

Allred - Beck Nuptials Told

An afternoon wedding ceremony united Miss Keri Lee Allred and William Joseph Beck on Friday, April 21 in the chapel on base at Camp Lejeune, N.C. Chaplain Gordon E. Paulson, U.S. Navy, officiated.

The bride is the daughter of O. N. Allred of Morehead City, N.C. Her husband is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Beck of 29 Park Drive in Woodstock.

Greg Beather provided traditional wedding selections. The bride wore a floor-length, white empire-style gown fashioned with an underskirt of light orchid flowered material. She carried a bridal bouquet of orchids surrounded by baby's breath.

Miss Rennee Henderson of Wildwood, N.C. was maid of honor in a floor length gown styled with an orchid flower design. She carried a bouquet of orchids.

Other attendants were Miss Jean Walsh, Miss Connie Barnum and Miss Rita Orama, all of Morehead City.

Woodstock Auxiliary Planning July Sale

Final plans for the rummage sale, the election of officers, and annual reports were on the agenda of the meeting of the Ladies Auxiliary of Woodstock Fire Co. 3 of Lake Hill.

Saturday, July 1, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the firehouse on Route 212 in Lake Hill, is the date for the annual rummage sale, which will feature, in addition to rummage, home baked goods, plants, candles, jewelry, and refreshments. Contributions for the annual sale can be made through Auxiliary members or left at the firehouse during the week of June 21.

Officers for the new year include Mrs. Henry P. Eighmey, president, Mrs. Louis Buscher, vice-president, Mrs. David Eighmey, recording secretary, Mrs. Roger Yarter, corresponding secretary, Mrs. Douglas Eighmey treasurer, and Mrs. John Mergandahl and Mrs. H. Phillips Eighmey, executive committee.

It was reported that renewal of memberships were now due, and that four new members had joined the organization during the past year—Mrs. Sidney Slayton and Mrs. Larry Wilbur being introduced at the meeting.

The Auxiliary will have a booth on home safety at the Open House scheduled for Sunday, July 9 at the firehouse, by the fire company. A report on the dinner-dance at the Wittenberg Sportsman's Club for the four companies and Auxiliaries of the Woodstock Fire Department on June 24, was also given.

Another item of business included a report on the Girl Scout troop, sponsored by the Auxiliary for the past four years, by Mrs. George Denise, leader. A campership for a Girl Scout was awarded by the Auxiliary.

Auxiliary meetings are held the last Tuesday of each month at the firehouse in Lake Hill, and new members are welcome at the meetings.

Washing Flatware

A dishwasher cleans flatware automatically, but if you're getting streaking, spotting, dull film, stains or encrusted food residues, review these procedures to avoid problems. Mix knives, forks and spoons in each section of the flatware holder and make sure they are not nesting together. Wash flatware as soon as possible after use. Pre-rinse, if the dishwasher will not be used for several hours.

Montreal Mode—1972

Elegance, Sophistication in Quebec's Gala Fashion Show

By DOROTHY A. NAREL
WOMEN'S PAGE EDITOR

MONTREAL, CANADA—A three-day program initiated by the Quebec Department of Industry and Commerce to promote Montreal fashions to the United States opened here Friday, June 9 at Place Bonaventure. More than 160 American, Canadian and British fashion and women's page editors were on the scene.

Seventeen young and innovative designers introduced their fashion messages—youth blended with sophistication. Emphasis was upon elegance of fabric and simplicity of design with comfort the guideline.

Combining French flair for detail and design with English-North American expertise, these designers, from the junior market up to the men's and ladies' lines, showed clothes that were practical but always sleek, refined and in good taste. It was so pleasant to notice the absence of gimmicky and Halloween type costumes.

Quality was highlighted in every segment of the show especially in the fabric choices—purebred mohairs to angoras for sweaters, camel hair for suits and coats, brushed blanket plaid wools, soft fleeces, silk and satins. There seems to be a return to durability—fabrics that hold up in time, that wear well and feel good.

When it came to definite styles, designers showed many youthful smock jackets, princess-line coats, dolman and huge batwing sleeves to accent coats, jackets, dresses, even sweaters. Crop jackets (we used to call them Eisenhower jackets) stop at the waist in the bomber and windbreaker style.

If anyone is wondering about the skirt lengths—the majority just graze the knee. Long skirts and long dresses are very definitely in the fashion pictures in Montreal with many sporting pleats or bias cuts. The skater's length is also popular and the more sophisticated Madam will be happy with the skirt that's cut just below the calf for daytime wear.

Lots of pantsuits featured wide cuffed pants, quality shirts with ties or ascots with the mood always on refinement, elegance and comfort.

Whether or not a Canadian designer put his woman in pants, the emphasis was always the same—femininity.

Other fashion highlights included the return of shagreen, tweeds, quilted velvet, polka dots, brilliant solid colors, flannel in suits and pants, winter white meltons, coal black, browns, sky grey and toffee.

In footwear, the classics are back—spectators, ties, pumps, straps, slings but all in updated versions that feature new bottom treatments, higher heels and slimmer, but defined, full toe shapes. Sandals continue as an important silhouette for evening and at-home wear.

The designers represented included: Hugh Garber for Margo Dress; Pierre Desmarais of Hurricane Harbor; Michel Robichaud; Robert Bernard; Marielle Fleury; Vali Dubsky; Philippe Chappellaine and Irving Camlot for Natural Furs, Ltd.

Also Leo Chevalier; Margaret Godfrey for Boutique Bagatelle; Lilli Dee for Modes Bilbouquet; Mortimer Garelick for Par Morty; Raymond Verville for Rubin

Brothers Clothiers; Robert Chernin for Alfie Sportwear; John Warden for Beverini; Elvia Gobbo for Luv Originals; Tom D'Aurice for The Factory; and John Warden for Bagatelle Menswear.

Representatives of the Quebec government on hand to welcome the fashion editors included:

The Honorable Guy St. Pierre, Minister of Industry and Commerce; Guy Poliquin, General Agent in New York; William Bradey, director of Quebec House in New York; Gilles Chatelet, director of International Services; Edward Ives, Marketing Consultant; Paul-Emile Blouin, director of fairs and exhibitions; and Manfred Kleiner, industrial attache.

Fashion producer and coordinator was Iona Monahan of the Quebec Dept. of Industry and Commerce.

LE SMOKING SPICED AND STYLED '72 in off-white wool melton to be paired with wide, flowing grey flannel pants, all by Elvia Gobbo for Luv Originals of Montreal. Left, the real smoking jacket border-stitched in grey covers a red, backless, halter blouse that ties over the pants in the back. Right, the short-sleeved cardigan smoking covers a red, long-sleeved man's shirt. The models are photographed in Vieux Montreal at Youville Stables. Never a "stable" at all, these handsomely restored buildings erected in the 1820's was once a hospital of the Grey Nuns. One section was once occupied by a firm which prospered for a time by selling grain to the Confederate Army. The American fashion editors were dined and wined here Saturday night.

SCHOOLGIRLISH sophisticated look as interpreted by Hugh Garber for Margo Dress of Montreal—a belted one-piece dress, the bodice of black crepe with lattice printed velvet collar and cuffs that match the long rounded skirt that goes from shades of chestnut and jet-black to a field of huge overprinted abstract flowers. Photographed at Le Chateau Champlain.

SUPER SEXY SWEATER that dips to bare the neck, tightens to mold the bust and hips, loosens at the arms with long dolman sleeves—tantalizingly colored in the palest pistachio angora and wool knit and accented with a pink sequin rose dead center. Dressing Girls Dressing girls should not be a matter of selecting scaled-down versions of adult clothes. Choose a young girl look in garments in proportion to the child's figure. In a "Mother-Daughter Guide to Fashion" the International Ladies Garment Workers Union advises that dresses look better on girls under 12 than do coordinates. With the exception of a blazer and short usually do not look right. Be careful of anything with a pleated skirt, children's suits pronounced waistline.

Hints From Heloise

I just inherited an old cedar chest, and, much to my dismay, there just isn't any cedar odor whatsoever. Is there any way to restore it?

Miss Anxious

We get this complaint all the time. Even cedar closets eventually give out with age — just like all the rest of us, kiddo!

Some people sand the inside, thus removing that top layer of unodoriferous wood. Then, the aroma comes back. If you try this in your chest, use your vacuum cleaner to remove the fine powder.

Outside of that, you can always drill tiny holes in the wood on the inside, and buy some oil of cedar at your drug store. Use an eye dropper and put about six drops in each hole.

But — and this is important — if you are going to drill holes in your closet or the sides of the chest, do drill them at a 45-degree angle.

And for mercy's sake, keep the door closed on cedar-lined closets! Even expensive perfume escapes if the top is left off.

Heloise

Dear Heloise:

It dawned on me as I was in the laundromat today that many people don't know how to fold fitted sheets.

A lady was trying to fold her sheets as I was, but was making a mess of it. She asked me to show her how, 'cause it looked so easy.

What I do is grab the closet corner and turn it inside out. Then, take the closet corner to that one, and fold it over that corner to make a hood (color out).

Then follow down the sheet for the next corner and that one goes over the two folded corners (color in). And, last — but not least — the last corner, color out.

The sheet is in fourths now. Straighten the sides, hood facing up. Fold down sides of hood neatly and fold to your liking the rest of the way.

My double-bed-sized sheets take me about 45 seconds to fold by myself. Look nice and fit in my linen drawer.

Plan to Take 'X' Out of the Movies

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
(© 1972 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: Everybody keeps talking about how dirty the movies are nowadays, but nobody does anything about it.

I think that every time we see an "X" or "R" rated movie advertised, we should write to the president of the studio that made that movie and tell him that this is one movie our family will not be seeing. And when they start making clean movies, we will be glad to see them.

If you printed this letter, Abby, and people all across the country started writing letters, do you think it might help to get all this raw sex out of the movies?

DISGUSTED
DEAR DISGUSTED: It might. But how do we get the "raw sex" out of the balconies and drive-ins?

DEAR ABBY: We are grandparents in our sixties. We have two married children who live in a city not too far from us. We never go there uninvited, so it cannot be said that we make pests of ourselves.

We have heard that they have come to our city to shop, or visit, but they haven't even bothered to call us. We have the usual family get-togethers at our home for Christmas and Easter, but they never stay very long, and we are made to feel that they regard it more a duty than a pleasure to be with us.

We send them and our grandchildren gifts, which are seldom acknowledged.

What has happened to the manners and Christian love we taught them? We denied ourselves many things so they could both have good educations to prepare them for the fine professions they now practice so successfully.

On those few occasions when we go to their homes they do not even have the courtesy to see us to the door when we leave.

Please, Abby, tell us where we have failed?

UNAPPRECIATED AND NEGLECTED

DEAR U AND N: Don't assume that YOU have failed. THEY have failed. Occupy yourself with other things and don't dwell on their lack of appreciation and neglect. If the calamity doesn't overcome you, feeling sorry for yourselves will.

DEAR ABBY: While at the grocery store this morning, a woman struck up a conversation with me about my baby girl, who was in the infant seat of my shopping cart.

The lady asked me how old she was and when I said, "Two and a half months," she acted horrified and then she went into this long-winded speech about how fat she was, and asked if my doctor had put her on a diet yet because her grandson had the same "problem!"

Abby, my baby got a very healthy start in life (11 pounds, three ounces at birth), and she weighs 14 pounds now and doesn't look like a slob. On the contrary, my doctor is very pleased with her progress.

I admit that my baby does look older than she is, because she's larger than most babies her age; but I don't appreciate hearing that I should "do something" about her "infant obesity." This isn't the first time this has happened. If it happens again, what should I say to shut them up?

DEAR PROUD MOMMY: "Thank you, but my doctor tells me my child is just fine." Then head for the frozen food section.

CONFIDENTIAL TO YOU:

The person who says he isn't "interested" in politics is like the drowning man who says he isn't interested in water. NOW is the time to make sure you are registered so you can vote. And if you aren't happy with the way things are going in this country, and you haven't voted, don't complain.

Problems? Trust Abby. For a personal reply, write to ABBY, BOX 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069, for Abby's booklet, "How to Write Letters for All Occasions."

Hate to write letters? Send $1 to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069, for Abby's booklet, "How to Write Letters for All Occasions."

Doing the Right Thing

Dear Mrs. Post:
When my husband and I go to see his mother who lives 150 miles away, we spend only one day. Mom is almost eighty and we would like to spend all of our time with her. Therefore my two sisters-in-law come to Mom's house to see us. Now they tell us my husband's brother is hurt because we do not go to his house, too. He refuses to come to Mom's — says that it is our obligation to visit him. What is your opinion?

Mrs. S. Fields

Dear Mrs. Fields:
Your husband's brother is being very selfish. He should not expect you to divide your time. His sisters are thoughtful and considerate in visiting you while you are at your mother-in-law's house.

When you go again to visit, write your brother-in-law ahead of time and tell him that you would be delighted to see him at your mother-in-law's house. Possibly this sort of invitation would overcome his reticence about joining the rest of the family at his mother's.

What is your most puzzling etiquette problem? To the sender of the most interesting question that I receive each week, I will send a free copy of Emily Post's Etiquette. The question chosen, and its answer, will be published in this column every Friday. Send your question to Elizabeth L. Post in care of the Daily Freeman, and don't forget to include your name and address.

Hello, Molly!! You're Just Great!!!

Veteran actress Molly Picon brought down the house at Hyde Park Playhouse last night with her interpretation of Mrs. Dolly Gallagher Levi, that matchmaker of all matchmakers, in the popular musical HELLO, DOLLY. It was Peter O'Rourke's first offering of a super-charged program of summer theatre and it hit the audience like a Roman candle.

Molly Picon, a legend in show business and a gal who will be celebrating her 53rd wedding anniversary this month, can give a flick of her wrist and convey mountains of words. She proved she doesn't need a powerful singing voice, she doesn't need to be tall and statuesque for she is an unmatched dynamo of acting talents and can capture an audience in record time. This she did and more. This was the third production of HELLO, DOLLY for this reviewer and it was by far the best. Any doubts I may have had about Molly Picon being cast in the lead were dispelled very rapidly in the opening minutes of the musical. I am still applauding.

The production, modified set-wise for the stage, was excellent. O'Rourke handled the lighting and Robert Billig, assisted by Rick Atwell, directed the musical portion. Marvelous costuming was handled by Brooks Van Horn.

Molly Picon was backed up with an excellent cast. Art Kassul, as Horace Vandergelder, was tops. He just concluded a midwest engagement of THE RAINMAKER and was featured with Burt Reynolds and Lois Nettleton. A native of Chicago, Art was the winner of that city's first Joseph Jefferson "Best Actor" Award in 1968 for his portrayal of the father in the SUBJECT WAS ROSES. He is a veteran of 275 productions including off-Broadway at the 4th Street, Maidman and Pocket Theatre, college tours of MOBY DICK, TAMING OF THE SHREW and PHANTOM LADY which were chosen to be performed and recorded at the Library of Congress.

David Christmas, cast as Cornelius, the store clerk who goes to New York to find adventure, was beautifully handled by David Christmas. He made his directorial debut this winter with DAMES AT SEA at the Ummers Theatre in Oklahoma City. He has performed in two packages with Vivian Vance HERE TODAY and EVERYBODY'S GIRL. Last summer he played Cornelius in HELLO DOLLY with Jane Morgan.

Mark Baker as Barnaby Tucker was another top performer in last night's production. He recently left a featured role in the off-Broadway musical hit LOVE ME, LOVE MY CHILDREN, to join this HELLO, DOLLY group. He is slated for a role in the Broadway musical VIA GALACTICA this fall.

Marilyn Wassell as Minnie Fay added still another dimension to the fine show. She joined the cast direct from a production of OWL AND THE PUSSYCAT in which she played the lead. Miss Wassell is an experienced night club performer having been featured in numerous satirical revues from New York to as far as Thule, Greenland.

Beth Fowler, as Irene Molloy the young widow, is repeating her performance with Miss Picon. She is absolutely delightful. You mustn't miss her singing that beautiful number RIBBONS DOWN MY BACK. She has former having been featured in numerous satirical revues from New York to as far as Thule, Greenland.

Appearing as townspeople, waiters were Marcia Brooks, Wayne Ciento, Robert DeAngelis, Richard Ammon, Harry Fawcett, Tania Hedrick, Sanford Levitt, Linda Madama, Rosalin Ricci, Dennis Roberts, Jane Ann Sargia.

The dance captain was Wayne Ciento and Ted Harris has served as advance director.

numerous stage and TV credits.

Others rounding out the great cast include Harriet Leider as Ernestina; Jimmy Dodge as Ambrose Kemper; Randy Ellen Levin as Ermengarde; Jane Ann Sargia as Mrs. Rose; Lance Hewitt as Rudolph; Dennis Roberts as Stanley; Robert DeAngelis as the judge and Harry Fawcett, the clerk.

Next week, June 19 — 24, Hyde Park Playhouse will present the prize winning musical 1776. It's a must on everyone's list.

This week, however, make it a point to catch Molly Picon in HELLO, DOLLY. As she put it — "I have played all over the world but this is my first appearance in Hyde Park." We wish we could keep her here.

Tiny Tips

Housework Break

Take short breaks while doing housework. Janet Wilson, of the University of Nebraska-Lincoln Extension Service, recommends a 10-minute break per hour rather than going at chores for three hours and then taking a 30-minute break.

Furniture Finish

Test the finish of furniture before you buy. Touch the furniture. Does it feel smooth? That's one sign of a good finish. Does it have a deep, rich glow, can you see deep into the heart of the wood? Is it clean rather than opaque and muddy? All these are marks of fine finishes.

Fingerprint Game

Frequent soap or detergent washings remove one of the plagues of housekeeping — the fingerprints and grime around door knobs and woodwork. Don't forget the same areas around doorbells and knockers on entrance doors. Guests see these first.

Bath Relaxation

Bath lounge pillows are available in a variety of colors. Featuring suction cups which adhere to back and sides of tubs, this combination of headrest and backmat provides a perfect cushion for bath relaxation.

Seersucker Is Back

Seersucker, that classic, puckered fabric, is back for summer in both ready-to-wear and yard goods. Most are machine washable and need no ironing.

Swabs for Lashes

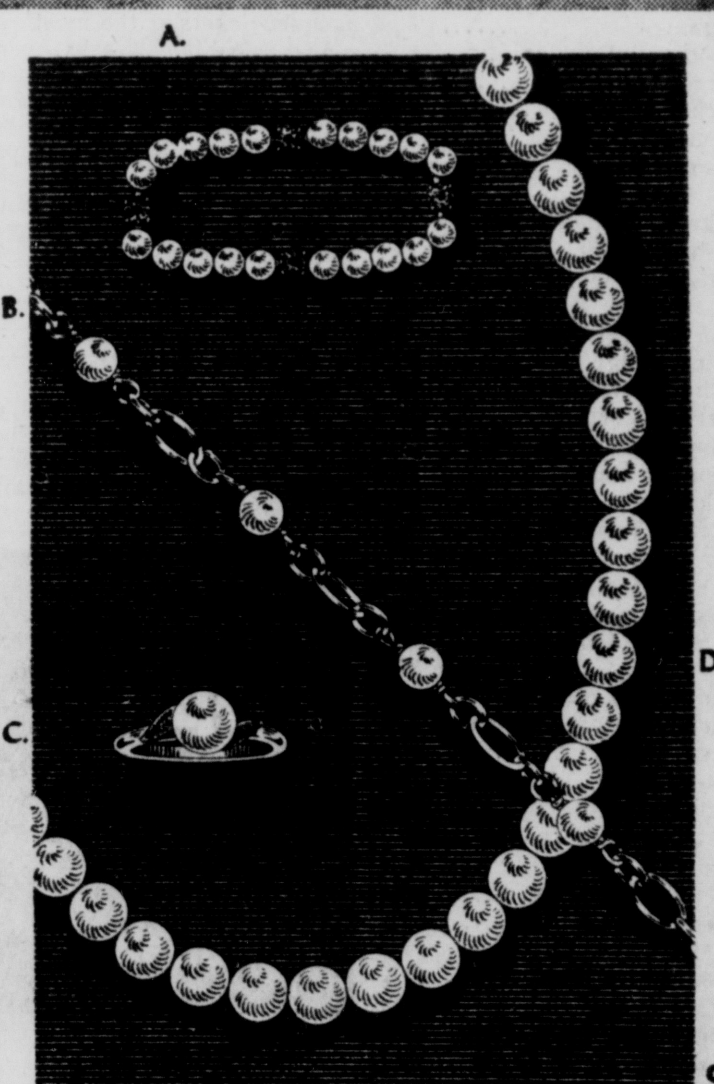

If you wear false lashes, use cotton swabs to "tamp" them down. The swab is simpler and cleaner than using your fingers.

Celebration Is Planned

EAST KINGSTON
The annual feast and bazaar of the St. Liberata-St. John Benevolent Association will be held at the picnic grounds in East Kingston, Saturday and Sunday, June 24 and 25.

Festivities begin Saturday at 5 p.m. with an assortment of games and activities. Refreshments will be sold. A spaghetti and meatball supper will be served from 5-8 p.m.

On Sunday, following the 10 a.m. Mass at St. Colman's Church, the feast and bazaar will continue, featuring a 2 p.m. penny social.

Admission to the picnic grounds is free.

Three Arrested For Shoplifting At Britts Store

KINGSTON

Three area women residents have been arrested by security officers at Britts store in the Kingston Shopping Plaza, on charges involving alleged shoplifting of merchandise.

Katherine A. Vladich, 60, of RFD 1, Box 381, Kingston (Town of Ulster) was charged by store police with petit larceny involving the alleged theft of a pair of ladies slacks worth $14. Colleen O'Rourke, 21, of Greenkill Avenue, was also cited for petit larceny. She allegedly left the store with a ladies blouse worth $11.

Security men also arrested Jill Andrea Cope, 27, of 322 Albany Avenue, on a similar charge. She was accused of leaving Britts with a scarf valued at $2.50.

The cases were referred to City Court for disposition.

Groundbreaking Ceremonies Are Held

RED HOOK

Groundbreaking on a $50,000 addition to St. John's Reformed Church in Red Hook was held Sunday, 100 years after the building of the original church.

According to Herbert Petz, building financial secretary, $38,700 has already been pledged and donated in the campaign. Excavation was started on Monday, with a three to four month target date set for completion.

The addition will contain classrooms, office and recreation space and will measure 60 by 40 feet, consisting of one story with a central hall and six rooms. Contractor is Lloyd Beardsley of Red Hook. Thermal pane windows will be in the shape of a cross.

The congregation voted to go ahead with the addition in April, following the report of a master plan study. It is anticipated that the needs of the church, including a large recreation area and a study for the ministers, will be met by this expansion.

County Vols Set Meeting

CLINTONDALE

The Ulster County Volunteer Firemen's Association will meet as guests of the Allied Community Fire Company at the Allied Firehouse, here, June 20 at 8 p.m.

President Merrill Williams advises all paid up members who wish to attend the annual banquet at the Tamarack Lodge on July 27 to get their banquet tickets at the meeting.

Also, Williams asks companies who will be participating in the annual convention on July 29 in Ellenville to forward the names of their accompanying bands or drum and bugle corps with their applications. Companies that have already sent in applications without the names of their musical groups are asked to forward the additional information. Prizes will be awarded for best musical groups.

Tickets for the banquet on July 27 are available either from Williams or from Fred C. Harder, association secretary, who lives in Kingston.

HERE WE GROW AGAIN

WHAT IS MAMMOTH MART WHERE DID THEY COME FROM WHAT DO THEY BRING US

These are three of several questions many people are now asking. Today at 10 A.M. we opened the doors of MAMMOTH MART, Route 9W, Kingston-Ulster, New York . . . the response was far beyond our expectations. The people came . . . they saw . . . they were amazed. Those of you who were at our store saw what MAMMOTH MART is . . . a modern self service discount department store, built with you, the shopper in mind.

At MAMMOTH MART you will find over 100 discount departments for the family and home, all on one spacious floor . . . In addition, there are wide easy-to-shop aisles, bright scientific lighting, most modern displays, acres of free and easy parking, plus a host of other features to make your shopping easier and more comfortable.

KINGSTON-ULSTER marks the fifty-first store for MAMMOTH MART . . . This multi-store purchasing power enables our buyers to purchase in large quantities and obtain the lowest possible prices, and thus pass the savings on to you . . . our valued customers.

WHERE DID WE COME FROM . . . MAMMOTH MART originated as Mammoth Mills over sixteen years ago in an old mill building in Framingham, Massachusetts. At that time, this was one of the largest mill outlets in New England. Seeking an identification for the store — "MARTY" the elephant mascot was born . . . to signify the MAMMOTH VALUES always found at our store. As the years passed, modern units were opened throughout New England. Now, there are MAMMOTH MARTS as far south as Maryland and North Carolina, and now our second unit in New York State.

WHAT DO WE BRING YOU . . . we bring you what we believe to be the finest and most beautiful discount department store in the Kingston-Ulster area. We bring you not only a beautiful store to shop in, but prices that are equally as attractive. We will offer only quality merchandise, nationally advertised brands, magazine fashions at low, low discount prices. Everything you choose to buy at MAMMOTH MART has a complete satisfaction guarantee. At MAMMOTH MART no sale is final . . . if you are not completely satisfied with any purchase, you may return it for exchange or refund. It is our hope that you will come and enjoy our hospitality and "Unchallenged Values."

Monticello Feature Fourth Lucas Win

Much-improved trotting gelding Lucas, a four-year-old owned, trained and driven by Dominic Macedonio of Ronkonkoma, N. Y., posted his fourth win in six outings this year in capturing Monticello Raceway's feature Monday night by a head over favored Armbrø Steven in 2:05.1 Central Park came on to take third, Lucas paid $18.20, $6.40 and $4.00. Macedonio moved Lucas from the four post and was far back at the early stages while Karen Mom cut out at 1:01.3 half. Moving on the outside at that point, Lucas was fourth, advancing to third at the three-quarter pole and being in front around the last turn. At the three-quarters, all seven horses frames the Hospitalmen were up by three. Hurley pushed two across in the seventh before Crosswell unloaded to drive in the tying and winning tallies. Pete Tomaszski and Jim Williams had four hits each for the losers. A run in the top of the seventh broke a 6-6 tie for Rolling Acres. Don Patton nabbed the win and slugged three hits, and George Finch absorbed the defeat. Ralph Temple homered, doubled, singled and scored three times to pace the Road Runners over the Alpine 10-5. Pheasant Inn downing Terpenings 6-3, and Rite Cleaners pummeling the Freeman Softies 13-2. LaCasse's shot came in the first inning off losing pitcher Mike Callahan, but after six uprising provided the momentum. Roger Brandt tripled in his own losing cause. Checked with one run in five innings, Pheasant Inn exploded on Rich Terpening for five in the sixth to pick up their victory. Two Terpening scores in the final frame just made things closer. Potential went unrealized for the third straight game as a six-hitter by Art Randolph stopped the Softy attack. Randolph tripled and smacked Runner attack. Paul Richards aided with a triple and two

Entries Slow For State Golf

POUGHKEEPSIE Twenty six golfers from 14 area courses have filed applications for the Poughkeepsie Section qualifying round for the New York State Men's Amateur Championship, Thursday, June 29, at Dutchess Golf and Country Club. Deadline for filing entries is June 17, according to William F. Bogle, chairman. Entries are coming in slowly, but Bogle said he anticipated at least 100 entries from the six counties included in the Poughkeepsie section. William T. (Bill) Odeneal of Locust Tree in New Paltz heads the list of early entries. Paul Kelly, crack Dutchess County Community College golfer, is also listed. Other entries to date include: James Apolinario, Beekman; Phill Buchanan and Ed Lattin Jr., College Hill; Ed Bass, Harbor Hills; Joe Garnot, IBM;

Berardi's Top Rock's

KINGSTON Bill Costello and Mike Palladino combined to outduel Ed Glynn and pitch Costello and Berardi Builders to a 3-2 victory over Rock Construction in the Babe Ruth Senior League. Palladino yielded singles to Ed Glynn and Mark Landers before yielding to Bill Costello in the sixth inning. Glynn, the losing pitcher, permitted only three hits and struck out 13. C&B won the game in the bottom of the sixth after Rock tied the score 2-2 in the top half. Costello, the relief pitcher, singled to center, advanced to Rocky Paonessa and Martin Nolletty, Mohansic; Sai Molella, Sports City; Frank Karlson, Sullivan CCC; John W. Scadura, Southern Dutchess. The Dutchess contingent includes Bruce P. Simmons, George Pacheco, Bobby G. Jones, Michael Cummings, John J. Pretak, Chauncy Maggiamomo. John Esterbrook and Michael A. Smith are entered from the Powelton Club, while Newburgh Country Club's entries include Vince Jesonek, Ralph Green, McCann Caven and Foster J. Scott. Golfers who are regular players at public courses which belong to the New York State Golf Association, as well as members of private clubs in the association, are eligible for the qualifying round, Bogle said. Entry forms are available at pro shops, at all member clubs and facilities.

Maurycy-Duval Win

LOUDONVILLE Joe Maurycy and Hap Duval defeated Ralph Montoya and Pat Palmieri on the first hole of a sudden death playoff to win the Northeastern New York PGA's annual Senior-Junior Pro Member championship at Shaker Ridge Country Club. The teams had tied in regulation play with best-ball 67's. Maurycy, Walhalla pro and the veteran Duval carded 35-32-67, while Montoya and Palmieri posted 34-33-67. A regular four won for Maurycy and Duval. Alex Gerlak of Twaalfskill a three-time Northeastern Seniors champion, teamed with Bob Haggerty Jr. to claim third place with 35-33-68. Gerlak and Haggerty collected four birdies to lead the early finishers but succumbed to late surges by the co-leaders in the regulation tourney. Al Stein of Glens Falls, the Northeastern president and veteran Bill Gressick, were among the leaders with 36-35-71. Two teams tied with best ball 72's — Ed Bosse of Colonie and Chick Moxon, 40-32-72 and Alex Sinclair of Mohawk and Bob Mix of Albany Country Club, who posted 37-35-72. Larry Osterander of Windham and Lou Merkle were all alone at 37-37-74. Stew Smith of Sawyerkill Country Club at Saugerties and Joe Kendall of Ontario carded

Ed Wasek, Shirley Benham Pace Loudenboomer Golf

SAUGERTIES Ed Wasek and Shirley Benham won first place in their respective divisions of the Sawyerkill Country Club's Loudenboomer tournament. Obstacles and obstructions were strewn over the course to confuse the golfers in the nine-hole event. Wasek managed a 62 gross with 12 handicap for net 50. Dennis Beaver, whose 55 was best actual score of the day, was runnerup with 55-4-51. Other winners in the men's division: Harry Szmach, 59-5-54; Bill Wolven, 64-7-57; Pete Fischer, 62-4-58; Tony Colli, 62-4-58; Gabriel Vozdik, 66-8-58; and Shad Fuller, 66-8-58. Mrs. Benham carded 71 gross and had 14 handicap for 57 net. Other women winners included: Jerry Szmach, 77-18-59; Ada Celli, 83-23-60, and Peg Sherlock, 80-18-62.

BETTER IDEAS MAKE BETTER CARS

Goldleaf Passes Tire Test

KINGSTON — Ron Goldleaf is on his way to a berth in the Pocono 500 on July 2 at Mount Pocono, Pa. After being rebuffed by Indianapolis 500 officials because of credentials, Goldleaf acquired a new car—a Finley-Offenhauser and decided to try his luck in the Pocono race. The first stage was the so-called Firestone Tire Test which all aspirants must undergo. Goldleaf was put through the paces in some rather distinguished company over the weekend and responded in excellent fashion. "I got up around the 165-170 mile per hour range," said Goldleaf, who was obviously quite pleased with his stint. "I know the car could do better," he noted after gunning it for 40 laps or nearly 100 miles. Mario Andretti dominated the tire test, hitting speeds of 200 mph on the straightaways and averaging over 180. Al Unser and Joe Leonard, a pair of Indy 500 stalwarts, were also on hand. Goldleaf is now looking forward to the practice runs on June 17 and the qualifying heats on June 24-25. "It's going into take 185 mph to win the pole position," he predicted and about 170 to qualify for the race," he said. Goldleaf was satisfied with his car's performance. "It handled very well and finished in good condition. I know it can do better."

The Pocono 500 field will be limited to 33 cars.

Lou's Rap 20 Hits

KINGSTON — Joe Fabbie homered and doubled, and Al DiBernardo homered in a 4-for-5 night at the plate as Lou's Subs ripped W. P. Market 14-5 in City Slow Pitch action.

In other games, Mahoney's bombed Perry's 18-2, Edgar's trampled the Village Jug 13-6, and Shadracks stopped LaLimas 8-3.

Lou's banged out 20 hits in their rout of the Marketers and bunched a dozen of them in two innings. Fabbie's blast capped a six-run third before the Submariners unloaded for eight in the fourth to put the game out of reach.

It took only three frames for Mahoney's to hang defeat on Perry's. Cleanup man Larry Allen made it to the plate three times in that short span and collected three hits including a homer as the winners averaged six hits per inning off loser Phil DeCicco. Frank Allen added two triples and Bill Michaels and Chino Cruz hit one each.

Kevin Ross, with a pair of doubles and a three-bagger, was the big stick in Edgar's attack. Joe Uhl also hit three safeties and scurried home all three times as an early Jug lead was wiped out.

Jim Conklin flipped a five-hitter at LaLima's anemic bats after his teammates presented him with a six-run first inning.

Rondout Job Program Starts Its Second Year

KINGSTON
The Youth Employment Program, under the auspices of the Rondout Service Center, is beginning its second year of service by sending out nearly 500 letters to Kingston businessmen regarding their summer employment needs. The free program is designed to assist conscientious youth seeking summer jobs in the Rondout area.

The success of the program depends on local businesses hiring needy youth who feel 'locked in' to a pattern of life that offers little hope for a brighter future. However, meaningful employment experiences would provide these disadvantaged youngsters with marketable skills for the future and enhanced self respect. The community, it seems, would also have to benefit from the success of this program. Interested businessmen should check into the 20% tax credit allowable with this program.

YEP is also interested in helping early adolescent youth summer work and has established Odd Jobs Unlimited for those too young to work in industry. These temporary jobs include household and yard work.

YEP is a nonprofit agency funded by the Office of Economic Opportunity. It is working in cooperation with several other Kingston projects including the Neighborhood Youth Corps, projects STEP and WFLD, the Hudson Valley Opportunities Industrialization Center, and Manpower.

The Rondout Service Center is located at the corner of Broadway and Spring Street. See job application coupon on page 17.

Taconic PTA Has Meeting

POUGHKEEPSIE
Schools, and all their diverse problems, were discussed in detail at a recent seminar held during the annual Spring Conference of the Taconic District P.T.A.

The event, held at Dutchess Community College in Poughkeepsie, attracted a number of notables, including school officials, congressional representatives and Ronald Dutcher, vice president of the New York State P.T.A.

Dutcher urged that P.T.A. members involve themselves in policy-making decisions at the local school level, and should actively seek quality education that corresponds to the amount of tax dollars spent.

Assemblyman Emeel Betros (R-Poughkeepsie) questioned the priorities of state spending, and said that New York State spends more on education than any other state, but does not achieve better results.

Pro-busing sentiments were expressed by Mrs. Antonia Cortese, vice president of the New York State Teachers Association. She said that busing and consolidation should be used to achieve racial integration. She also criticized the federal government for taking 97 per cent of all taxes, but returning only five per cent to the states for education.

Dr. Edwin Hunger, Poughkeepsie's superintendent of schools, and Philip Magarella, a member of the Wappingers Falls Board of Education, also spoke on the problems of operating educational facilities with the monies available.

A number of other seminars were held, including: "The School: Changes in the Child's World;" and "The P.T.A. — Advocate for the Child."

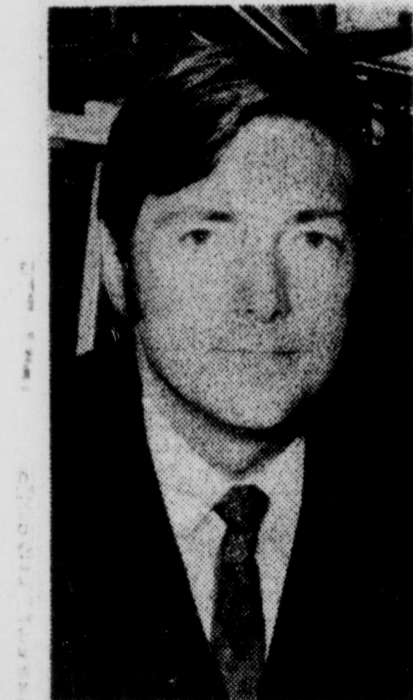

Supports Sale Of State Land

KINGSTON
Assemblyman H. Clark Bell today expressed pleasure with Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller's approval of his measure allowing the commissioner of general services to sell a piece of state owned land, in the Town of Esopus, to the Hidden Harbor Yacht Club.

Assemblyman Bell said that the yacht club had been under the impression that it owned the parcel of land in question, but recently the club was informed that the land actually belonged to the State of New York.

Under the terms of the new law, the commissioner is now authorized to sell the land for what he considers a fair and equitable price to the club.

Bell pointed out that the land is of no practical use to the state, but it is useful as part of the Hidden Harbor Yacht Club facilities.

Taylor N. Thompson, president of The VirTis Company Gardiner, was elected president of The Mid-Hudson Industrial Association Monday night at the region-wide industry group's 62nd meeting at the Holiday Inn, Fishkill.

Thompson, a resident of New Paltz, succeeds Curtis R. Williams, who has been president since 1970.

Eugene W. Smith, Plant Manager, NABISCO, Inc., Beacon, was elected Vice President. Re-elected Treasurer and Secretary, respectively, were John C. Corliss, Vice President, Bankers Trust Hudson Valley, and Ruth A. Coffey. William K. Hayes was reappointed Executive Vice President.

Lt. Gov. Malcolm Wilson was guest speaker at the dinner meeting.

Tivoli Village Board... Operations Back in Focus

It was business as usual for the Tivoli Village Board Monday night following the three-day Centennial Celebration as the mundane details of operation once again came into focus.

It was decided that village attorney Thomas Frost would investigate the building of two model homes without permits at Tivoli Acres.

A member of the Board of Appeals noted that Robert Ganley said he had sold the property to Malcom Cornell, but that there is no record of the transaction in the Dutchess County clerk's office. The corporate entity proceeding with the building, calls itself "Meadow Crest."

Frost will be asked to review a request by Kingston Cablevision asking for a 12-month extension on its contract to hook up the Village of Tivoli with its Rhinebeck tower.

The request cited "unavoidable delays" and requirements to receive Federal Communications Commission approval as the reason for being unable to meet the June 18 deadline as specified.

The company has already serviced most of the villages of Rhinebeck and Red Hook.

The Board will check costs for possibly converting the fire company to a plectron radio system. It would be necessary to hook up with the Rhinebeck base, at an initial cost of $1,000, and pay at least $150 monthly thereafter for service to Poughkeepsie.

One reason is that it is becoming impossible to find a fire alarm operator who will be available 24 hours a day.

Mayor Mortimer Appel said that a Dutchess County Department of Health survey at the Tivoli dump showed it to be in good shape with the exception of a "slight rodent problem."

Ulster County Legislature Meeting... Evening Business Session Is Planned

KINGSTON Ulster County Legislature will meet at 8 p.m. Thursday in regular monthly meeting, dispensing with its customary 4 p.m. session of the board.

Legislative members will also depart from their usual custom of having the Republicans and Democrats dine separately. Instead, all members will gather for a joint dinner hour at the Twaafskill Country Club.

Among the many pieces of legislation to come before the evening business session at the County Office Building include a local law to establish an Ulster County Traffic Safety Board and the authorization of county participation in the comprehensive planning and management assistance program.

There will reportedly be several resolutions pertaining to proposed changes in the Social Services Department and there will be a proposal to authorize the hiring of special investigators to seek out fraudulent claims in the Social Services Department.

Staffing and salary schedules are to be adopted for the new infirmary, annex and county home and a number of appointments are expected to be made to various boards.

Consideration will also be given to the publishing of quarterly lists of all expenditures of the county and to redirecting the Board of Elections to send clerks to each high school in the county to register students to vote.

The entire body of the Legislature will memorialize, William F. Edelmuth, former County Legislator and mayor of Kingston who died recently.

Speech Therapist Visits Welcomed

RHINEBECK and her husband Richard now live in Stone Ridge where they are restoring an old, abandoned farm house. She has previously held a position as speech therapist at Chase Manhattan Bank in New York.

Mrs. Davis, from Long Island.

What did she do at a bank?

It was her job to coach bank officials whose speech patterns hampered their effectiveness in communicating, especially those with foreign accents.

At Northern Dutchess, Donna deals with older patients in the Extended Care Facility and Nursing Home. Most are aphasic patients who, because of a stroke or other illness, have lost the ability to express themselves in ordinary language and need speech retraining.

There are presently six patients in the speech therapy program.

"While progress is often slow," says Donna, "motivation is very high. They all have something they want to say so each session is a new, exciting experience which patients find very stimulating."

Donna majored in Speech and Drama at Emerson College, Boston, and in Speech Therapy at Hofstra University, Long Island.

Drug Council Lists New Activity

KINGSTON Robert Cranston, executive director of the Kingston Narcotics Guidance Council has announced the introduction of a new activity of the adult education section of the Council. Starting immediately, selected members of the Council, will, on invitation, go into the home of an interested Kingston family who has invited 8 to 10 neighbors, make a presentation on drugs and invite discussion afterward.

Cranston added that anyone wishing to host such an evening, should, after compiling a list of neighbors who agree to attend, call Barbara Conti or the Guidance Council between the hours of 7:30 and 10:00 any evening.

tended to negotiate a contract settlement, saying that the Association "does not intend to accept a contract through a legislative hearing this year."

Bowman replied that the Board "would certainly like to" negotiate a settlement, noting that the matter is now "in fact finding" and adding that it depended upon the next couple of sessions.

And he said that the Board had gotten into negotiations on salaries with the Association. There has been no resolve.

District Principal Russell J. Keefe noted that it had been specified by Governor Rockefeller's office that 18-year-olds could hold civil office in New York State.

This has application in the Red Hook district, where an 18-year-old high school senior Christopher Melley is challenging Bowman for his seat in Wednesday's election.

Keefe said the Board had accepted Melley's petition and his name will appear on the ballot along with Bowman's.

A somewhat unusual sentence was meted out by Town Justice Ellmore Fraleigh to some youths who pleaded guilty to criminal trespass, third degree, in some damage done to the Mill Road School prior to Palm Sunday.

Keefe said that the youthful offenders were sentenced to conditional discharge pending the payment of damages and the performance of a work detail on sweeping the blacktop at that school to the satisfaction of school authorities.

Keefe then thanked the State Police BCI for their cooperation.

The district principal also stated that there are "14 or 15 people" who will probably be affected by the recent state ruling allowing the three-year tenure period to those in service prior to last March 9. The law was changed last year by the

Red Hook Meeting... Contract Discussed

By TIM SCHUSTER

RED HOOK More than 100 teachers in the Red Hook School District attended the regular monthly Board of Education meeting Monday night, two days prior to the budget vote.

Janet Scriber, president of the Red Hook Faculty Association, asked Robert Bowman of the Board whether the Board in-state legislature raising the tenure period for a teacher to five years.

A Board policy bringing department chairmen up for review every three years was approved.

Several appointments and resignations were also approved.

Ulster Businessmen Stress Participation, Area Improvement

Unique among retail merchants organizations in this area, the Ulster Businessmen's Association, Inc., under the leadership of President Joseph Corneliske, has stressed civic participation and area improvement rather than the more usual promotional activities.

The size and complexity of the Ulster shopping area — over 270 businesses in the town, of which 200 are located along the two-mile stretch now known as Ulster Shop City — rules out the traditional "parking lot promotion" as a cooperative endeavor, although many of the individual members do conduct their own parking activities.

One of the Association's major achievements has been the establishment of an identity and promoting a spirit of pride in the area among business men and women. The main business artery, once known variously as Albany Avenue Extension, Route 9W North, or Saugerties Road, was renamed Ulster Avenue Mall by the Town Board at the request of the Association. The entire shopping area was designated "Ulster Shop City." A logo was adopted and has appeared on entrance and street signs as well as on individual business establishments.

Properties along the mall were given street numbers for use by the Postal service, and for the convenience of customers.

The Association early took the lead in promoting area beautification by encouraging its own membership to clean up, fix up and paint up their own places of business, then cooperating with town officials in clean-up campaigns including the removal of old junked cars.

This Spring, the Ulster Businessmen's Association sponsored a premiere movie showing of $ (Dollars) in order to establish a scholarship at Ulster County Community College. More recently, the Association itself was a sponsor and many of its members participated in the Zonta Walkathon for the Kingston Narcotics Guidance Council. The Association also took a leading role in urging passage of the Sewer Improvement District referendum.

Meanwhile, the Association continues through its committees to press for highway improvements to alleviate traffic congestion in the area. Officially, it is urging construction of a four-lane undivided highway along the present right-of-way. It is also urging Postal authorities to establish a mounted route to serve the area, and requesting utility companies to place all wires underground.

Corneliske, the president, is the owner-operator of Ulster Automotive. Other officers are: Robert Regan, PPG Industries, vice president; Louis Gruber, Hertz Rent-A-Car, treasurer; and Mrs. Bette Maxson, secretary. Directors are: Louis DiDonna, Bernie Singer, Richard Craig, Howard Fox, Thomas DiMico and Robert Sudlow.

Dutch Cupboard Newest Member Of Association

Newest member of the Ulster Businessmen's Association is the Dutch Cupboard on East Chester Street Extension, a specialty food and cheese shop operated by Mr. and Mrs. Robert Schwenk.

The attractively decorated interior recreates a country store atmosphere with its rough hewn boards, barrels, and even a real antique coal stove.

A feature of the house is its homemade bread and muffins, not unexpected by local residents who know that the proprietor is a member of the well-known Schwenk's Bakery family.

An unusually comprehensive selection of imported and domestic fine foods and cheeses is on sale, including natural foods, old favorite candies such as licorice and horebonds, and imported coffee beans. The store is open 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. from Monday through Friday, and 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturdays.

A section of the store has been set aside as a coffee shop open for lunch — jumbo sandwiches and salads — and afternoon coffee. In an adjoining room is a gift shop featuring food-related gifts.

SPACIOUS PARKING LOT AWAITS COAT OF BLACKTOP AT MAMMOTH MALL COMPLEX.

Mammoth Mall Complex Opens on Wednesday

TOWN OF ULSTER
The long-awaited opening of the sprawling Mammoth Mall shopping complex in the Town of Ulster becomes a reality Wednesday, with the grand opening ceremonies of the Mammoth Mart department store.

The 65,000 square foot department store will become the 51st Mammoth Mart, Inc., has opened throughout the United States, and the second in New York State. The first opened in Ithaca earlier this year.

Mammoth Mart becomes the first tenant to open a facility in Mammoth Mall. Albany Public Markets is expected to open its 30,000 square foot supermarket before the end of the month.

Ribbon cutting ceremonies will take place at Mammoth Mart's newest store at 10 a.m. Wednesday. A number of local officials, as well as key company executives, will be on hand for the festivities.

Describing their newest store, Mammoth Mart executives said it "is a unique example of ultra luxury design in self service construction. Richly carpeted specialty areas, canopy accented departments, exciting wallpapered backgrounds, boutique action mannequins and lavish chandelier lighting decorate the vast store interior."

Mammoth Mart, Inc. is listed on the American Stock Exchange and operates stores in New England, North Carolina, Maryland and New York State. Additional units are planned for Pennsylvania, Maryland, Maine and Massachusetts this year.

The new Town of Ulster store will be open daily from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. Charge accounts and layaway plans will be made available to customers.

Mammoth Mall is a fully enclosed, climate controlled shopping center under the management of Equity Developers of Montvale, N.J. The property is owned by the Walter Reade Organization.

Leasing arrangements are being handled by Louis J. Zoghby of Montvale, N.J., and Dottie Hayes, a licensed real estate broker with offices at 810 Ulster Ave. Mall. Most of the mall's shopping space has already been leased, and tenants are expected to begin occupation throughout the year.

Mammoth Mall was originally scheduled to open in May.

Recycling Depots For June and July

KINGSTON — Several depots have been announced for recycling drives in June and July. A county-wide effort will take place the weekend of July 8 and 9, with depots to be established at the National Guard Armory in Kingston, the Beverage Discount Center on Route 9W in Saugerties and in the Rochester-Marbletown area. Exact locations and times will be announced. Depots will also be established at Simmons Plaza in Saugerties and in Woodstock for a recycling drive the weekend of June 24-25. In each drive, it was noted that all types of recyclable materials will be collected, including newspapers, magazines, used stationary, paper bags, and cardboard boxes, aluminum and glassware. The Environmental Task Force, the Combined Conservation Force, the Onondaga County and Rochester and the Onondaga County and Rochester are among the organizations sponsoring the recycling endeavors.

Telephoning System Will Alert Members

TOWN OF ULSTER, than three calls. But the real key to the plan is that the same caller calls the same three people each time, and they, in turn, are expected to provide the caller in advance with their business and home numbers and the name of a responsible alternate to call when the manager is on vacation or out of town. Also, by the time the third 'stage' in the process is reached, there will be nine telephones working simultaneously instead of only one, greatly speeding the procedure.

The Ulster Businessmen's Association has adopted a telephoning system designed to alert members rapidly in an emergency, or when counterfeit money or forged checks are being circulated. It is also used to issue routine reminders of meetings, promotional deadlines, or other Association business.

The "Triple-Quick Alert" system is based on the simple expedient of having each member call three others.

"Having one person make 10 or 15 calls is an afternoon's work, what with busy signals, people being out, and the caller's line being tied up with incoming calls," explained John R. Warren, public relations consultant, who originated and developed the plan. "With this system, no one need make more

DeGraff Elected County Commander

ROSENDALE — Orrin DeGraff of Kingston American Legion Post 150 was elected 1972-73 commander of the Ulster County American Legion Convention at a meeting of delegates held Saturday. DeGraff's election came on the second ballot. He and Charles Deyo, representing Sullivan-Shafer Post 176 in New Paltz, finished in a tie at the end of the first ballot. They were the only announced candidates for the post.

Elected as vice-commanders were Carl Sanford, Woodstock Post 1026; Joseph Egan, Rose Sheeley Post 1034, Walkkill; Raymond Helmich, Rosendale-Tillson Post 1219. Other officers chosen were Harry Van De Mark Jr., Town of Ulster Post 1748, adjutant; William Walsh, Rosendale-Tillson Post 1219, finance officer; Rev. Wallace Randall, Town of Marlborough Post 1512, chaplain and John Tyler, Rosendale-Tillson Post 1219, service officer.

Following the election of officers for the new year, the convention elected four delegates at large and ten other delegates to this year's 54th Department of New York American Legion Convention, which will convene in Syracuse, July 20-22. At-large delegates are: DeGraff, George Bragg of Lloyd Post 193, James V. DeStasio of Rosendale-Tillson Post 1219 and Thomas Rizzo of Lloyd Post 193.

Other delegates include George Green, Cook-Taylor Post 111, Ellenville; Albert O. Sonnenberg, Kingston Post 150; Van De Mark; Henry Gregorio, Lloyd Post 193; Deyo; Walsh; Wayne Schubert, Town of Esopus Post 1298; Nolie Irwin, Town of Esopus Post 1748; James Coppersmith, Town of Marlborough Post 1512 and Helmich.

The convention endorsed James V. DeStasio for Department vice commander and George Bragg for Third District vice commander.

Saugerties Meeting Set

GLASCO — Town of Saugerties taxpayers will hold a meeting Wednesday to discuss recently imposed increases in their tax assessments.

The meeting will begin at 7:30 p. m. in the Glasco Firehall. Spokesmen for the group maintain that the increases are "inequitable" and that the assessors have given taxpayers insufficient time to react to the increases.

he will want to build a real house, and we'll help.

When the time comes, Kingston Trust stands ready to help this young man with a mortgage loan toward buying or building his own home.

Meanwhile, how about you?

Kingston Trust will give you a prior commitment on a mortgage loan before you go house hunting, if you wish. And to keep things simple, we can arrange to have the monthly mortgage payments automatically deducted from your Kingston Trust Checking account. See about a home mortgage loan at any one of our eight offices.

No wonder people trust Kingston Trust.

Your Horoscope

Wednesday, June 14

GENERAL TENDENCIES: You now have it in your power to know exactly where you are headed and how you can best make your cherished desires come true. A fine day and evening for gaining the goodwill of others by giving deserved compliments and showing them your true friendship.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Make appointments with others for recreation or business. Keep them on time for best results. Show others that you appreciate them. Give compliments when due. Show you have poise.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Make plans with those who dwell with you and work out problems together. Plan a more abundant future. Add new appliances to home and make it more comfortable. Be wise.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Find the best way to make your routine duties more efficient. Your associates will cooperate with you more now. Show your finest talents to all. Relax at home tonight with loved one.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) You have a good plan for taking care of your financial problems and should go through with it instead of procrastinating. Obtain the advice you need from business expert.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) If you are friendly with others, you can gain the favor you have long wanted. Engage in those hobbies that will relieve you from worry. Forget that pessimistic mood and be happy.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Much study of data you have at hand is all you need to make a success of a project you have in mind. Use your intellect and solve those problems you have wisely. Stop worrying.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) You are able to contact an influential friend today for the advice you need. Listen carefully to suggestions given you and follow them. Evening is fine for indulging in favorite hobbies.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Start working on career and government matters that are important and gain added prestige. Make sure that you handle a credit matter wisely and quickly. Stop procrastinating.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) If you expand in several spheres of your endeavor now, you can easily become a more satisfied and affluent person. Take advantage of the many opportunities around you.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) You know exactly how to handle a ticklish business affair now, so get busy early in the day. Once your work is done, thing along more romantic lines, that you are generous.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Showing associates how much you appreciate them brings more goodwill and other benefits. Gain the necessary support you need. Show others that you are a very popular person.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) You can produce far more now through new ideas you have which are most practical. Find a better method of operation. Being more willing to cooperate gains the respect of others.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be one of those clever persons who understands the overall picture of any project and is a born leader. Be sure to direct the education along leadership lines at the high schools. A word of praise goes a long way here, whereas forceful methods could spoil the fine initiative and promise. Use a tactful approach. Scholastic sports are fine.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

Jean Adams' TEEN FORUM

LETDOWN: (Q.) Recently I went on a church retreat. In the five days I was there, I came closer to God than I have ever been. Everyone there was my brother. They still are. I have never felt so much love for a group of people.

But now, when I think back on the retreat, I become extremely depressed. I cry. I asked my youth director, who was there, about this. He said I am depressed because I had such a high spiritual experience and I know now that on this earth I can never again be in exactly the same situation with exactly that same group.

I did not ask my youth director about my boy friend. He was not a member of the group. He is not even a member of my church. And since I returned I haven't felt the same about him.

I keep pushing him aside and thinking about some of the guys on the retreat. Every one of them except the youth director, who is 28 and married, is younger than I am, so I am not saying I want to go out with them. But still I keep thinking that maybe I don't like my boy friend any more.

He has always been extra nice to me, and I do not have any other boy I think might ask me out. So should I wait and if someone asks me out that I like then tell him? Or should I tell him now and risk losing him?—Closer to God Farther From My Guy in Oklahoma.

(A.) It is human after a highly uplifting experience to have a letdown when you find yourself back in the old familiar everyday scene.

Boy Scouts and Girl Scouts have similar experiences after exciting adventures. So do members of football teams after big trips. The same thing goes for explorers and mountain climbers and soldiers and probably even astronauts.

They all discover that peaks can be climbed but it is not possible to stay at the crest indefinitely.

They realize they are human, and have limitations. That is what is happening to you. You have also turned in a new direction and your boy friend did not turn with you. This adds to your letdown.

This does not mean that you should drop him right away. It does mean that you recognize a natural break in your life and that you should start looking for someone—not necessarily one of the boys on the retreat—who can share your direction and your conviction.

I have always strongly urged dating and marriage in the same faith where possible. I urge the same for you.

Quick Quiz

Q — What is the world's largest lake?
A — The Caspian Sea. The name is a misnomer as it is really a landlocked lake and so classified by oceanographers.

Q — In Great Britain, what term corresponds to the term "legal holiday" in the United States?
A — Bank holiday.

Q — What is the most valuable food fish in the world?
A — The herring is the most numerous fish caught by man for food—immense quantities are netted by North Sea trawlers.

Q — What is the source of moonlight?
The sun. Moonlight is reflected sunlight.

Q — What do the letters A, B, AB and C identify?
A — The four human blood types.

Q — Which is the only country that is also a continent?
A — Australia.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

Most of the world's major astronomical observatories are in the northern hemisphere with few large telescopes in the southern hemisphere. The World Almanac notes, however, that giant telescopes are being completed in Chile and Australia which will bring the central region of the Milky Way and other areas under sharper view.

Baseball . . . TV 'Winner'

NEW YORK (AP) — NBC has launched what must be a summertime winner, pre-empting "Laugh-In" and movie broadcasts for 10 weeks of major league baseball games. A live game is a viewer's treasure when the competing channels are rerunning last winter's tales.

The opening game Monday night had the Detroit Tigers winning 2-1 over the Minnesota Twins at Bloomington, Minn. But NBC's problem was the pregame show, an innocuous enough time-killer on leisurely weekend afternoons, but an important element in holding prime-time viewers.

For the 15 minutes between 8 p.m. EDT and the game's start, something novel or slightly stimulating would have been nice.

NBC Sports, however, took the traditional road—into the archives for a bit of baseball nostalgia.

Considerably aided by old newsreel clips, Curt Gowdy narrated a crisp and pretty dull recollection of baseball coverage in the old radio days, evoking the name, voice and picture of Graham McNamee, Bill Stern, Paul Douglas and other earlier sportscasters.

It may have evoked some memories among the old timers, and it did plug an awkward gap, but it would have been more fun to find out what Marshall Dillon was up to.

CBS' first experiment with game shows in years will end at the end of the month. "The Amateur's Guide to Love" will depart after a minimum 13 weeks. CBS will replace it with one of its favorite standbys, a rerun of a nighttime situation comedy, in this instance "My Three Sons."

The cancellation of the game show ends another attempt to wring some entertainment out of the concealed-camera gimmick which worked well for many years on "Candid Camera." The latter show was sometimes hilarious, but no one has ever been able to match its style and way-out practical jokes.

"Amateur's Guide to Love," with Gene Rayburn as host, was a flimsy effort in which a pretty girl or an attractive young man asked strangers of the opposite sex to make fools of themselves as they were steered right into focus.

Singer James Darren, for instance, approached girls, one by one, in a book shop and invited them to experiment in jogginess by joining him in a three-legged pair of slacks.

The result was a daily series that came out vulgar, phony and sort of desperate.

Supreme Court Showing Its Conservative Face

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon's drive to put a conservative face on the Supreme Court is meeting with success. But the rightward drift in criminal law is not uninterrupted. Sometimes the Court seems to be going in two directions at once as it did Monday.

With resistance from only two of the Nixon nominees, Lewis F. Powell Jr. and William H. Rehnquist, the Court in one ruling actually expanded one of the landmark decisions of the liberal '60s: the right of all defendants, rich or poor, to have a lawyer defend them at trial.

The opinion came from the pen of William O. Douglas, an activist in applying the Bill of Rights long before Earl Warren even became chief justice.

Douglas said the Sixth Amendment guarantees a defendant a lawyer whenever he faces a possible jail sentence. Warren's conservative successor, Warren E. Burger, went along. So did Harry A. Blackmun, another Nixon nominee.

It wasn't until 1963 and the Gideon decision that defendants who were charged with "serious crimes" and could not afford a lawyer were guaranteed that one would be provided by the state.

In the nine years since, the Court and most of the states have confined this right to trials that could lead to jail terms of at least six months.

But Douglas said the Sixth Amendment calls for a lawyer whenever a trial could result in "deprivation of a person's liberty."

Unwary by the change this will require, he pointed out some 18,000 new lawyers are admitted to practice yearly—more than eight times the estimated number needed to represent all poor people charged with misdemeanors other than traffic offenses.

And most misdemeanors, he said, will not call for a lawyer since most do not lead to a jail sentence.

AP Analysis

Within minutes of announcing this decision, however, the Court in another ruling carried forward the "law and order" theme of Nixon's 1968 presidential campaign. This was a 6-3 decision that gives police broader powers to conduct street searches without warrants.

Four years ago, the Court gingerly granted exceptions to the general Fourth Amendment rule that police cannot stop a citizen and search him unless the officer has "probable cause" to make an arrest.

The principal exception allowed a "stop and frisk" when the officer feared his life might be endangered.

Now the Court has gone on to approve the search of a man sitting in a parked car on the basis of a tipster's word that he is carrying a loaded handgun in his waistband.

The search, in Bridgeport, Conn., in 1966, turned up some heroin and the suspect was tried and convicted on narcotics and gun charges.

Said Justice Rehnquist, the newest and probably most conservative Nixon appointee: "The Fourth Amendment does not require a policeman who lacks the precise level of information necessary for probable cause to arrest to simply shrug his shoulders and allow a crime to occur or a criminal to escape."

Justice Thurgood Marshall, in dissent, noted that simply carrying a gun was not illegal in Connecticut. Therefore, he said, the officer had no more reason to suspect a crime than he would have if the frisked man, Robert Williams, were wearing a blue shirt.

Marshall said the decision "expands the concept of warrantless searches far beyond anything heretofore recognized as legitimate."

Douglas and Justice William J. Brennan Jr. also dissented.

But the four Nixon appointees plus Potter Stewart and Byron R. White won out.

Last week, it was the four Nixon appointees plus Stewart combining to give police authority to place arrested suspects in lineups without a lawyer on hand.

The week before, it was the four Nixon appointees plus White holding the Constitution does not require unanimity of jurors for conviction in most criminal cases in state court.

On the same day, three Nixon appointees lined up with White and Stewart to limit the immunity from prosecution that is to be guaranteed witnesses who are forced to testify before grand juries.

The fourth appointee, Rehnquist, disqualified himself from voting.

Report North Viets Will Continue Move

SAIGON (AP) — Hanoi watchers in Saigon believe the central committee of North Vietnam's Communist party has resolved to continue the offensive in South Vietnam despite the intense U.S. bombing and the mining of northern harbors.

Their conclusion is based on a series of articles published this month in Nhan Dan, the official party newspaper, and a communique issued over the weekend by the North Vietnamese Council of Ministers.

Analysts in Saigon say the communique and the newspaper articles reveal policy decisions that could only be made with the concurrence of the central committee.

"The decision was to go all the way," said one experienced observer.

According to his view, the 69-member committee met at the end of May—after the U.S. response to the offensive was clear—and new policies were revealed early this month in a 5,000 word, three-part series of articles in Nhan Dan signed by Hong Ha. The name was unfamiliar to intelligence analysts and is believed to be a pseudonym for a writer expressing the party's official view.

"The North has entered the war," Hong Ha wrote. "We accept the Nixon clique's challenge. For final victory, we are mobilizing all our forces. Peace will only return to the North when the South has triumphed. From now until that time, the daily life of the entire North, including all tiny pieces of land, will be put on a war footing."

The articles admit the bombing campaign may be devastating and that some industrial plants may not be rebuilt until after the war, but they call for an immediate and determined effort to support the front.

"Our people can walk, can use torchlight, can eat watered rice gruel and still defeat the U.S. aggressors," Hong Ha declared.

The articles emphasize the importance of maintaining communication and transportation facilities, hard hit by the bombing, and of using local plants to produce goods knocked out by the destruction of heavy industry.

They also stress the importance of the rice harvest, which is endangered by the annual flood and typhoon season.

Kissinger Escapades ... Dignity Scored

WASHINGTON (UPI)—When Dr. Henry A. Kissinger allowed a Persian belly dancer to perch on his lap during the trip home from the Moscow summit, did his fondness for frolicking detract from the dignity of his office?

Rep. William J. Scherle, R-Iowa, posed the question Monday about Kissinger, the White House "swinger" who is President Nixon's chief adviser on foreign policy. Scherle, a grain and livestock farmer before he was elected to Congress in 1966, provided his own answer.

"I'm no prude," Scherle said, "and I'm no Puritan, but I think a certain amount of dignity ought to correspond to his role. There's a time and a place. Business is business, and pleasure is pleasure."

"If happy Henry continues on his Don Juan party pass," he said, "the next picture of the distinguished ex-Harvard professor may very well appear in the center folds spread of Cosmopolitan magazine—with a staple in his navel."

It was the second time in recent months the conservative Republican has criticized affairs at the White House. Late last year he complained the executive department had spent too much to build and equip a White House exercise room. He called the layout a "Roman romper room."

Scherle circulated his views on the lifestyle of Kissinger in a newsletter to his constituents. He said the White House asked for 10 copies and added he was sure the letter would "circulate a little higher," obviously referring to the President.

Scherle said some of his constituents had told him they did not approve of Kissinger's activities.

"The world press carried extensive reports of his fondness for frolicking," Scherle said. "Everyone likes a little fun. We're not opposed to it but we feel there is a proper place."

He said that as a representative of the U.S. government on a serious mission, "Hank should have curbed his hankering for the birds and the bubbly."

During a social gathering in Tehran, Iran, belly dancer Nadia Parsi, 23, sat in Kissinger's lap. Kissinger took the interlude with good cheer and remarked he hoped to "make the world safe for belly dancers."

Senate Group Cuts Benefits

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Seeking economies, the Senate Finance Committee has cut by half the 10 per cent Social Security benefits increase it approved last week.

By an unrecorded voice vote Monday, the panel decided to make the increase only 5 per cent for the several million retired persons who draw the minimum benefits. They are people with low lifetime earnings or people who worked for only a few years under Social Security payroll taxation.

The committee's reversal apparently was motivated by a desire to keep to a minimum the tax increase which will be required next year to pay for the increase in benefits.

A decision was expected today on how large that increase would be.

The minimum benefit now is $70.40 a month for a single person and $133 for a couple. It would rise to $74 and $141 under the committee's decision to hold to 5 per cent the increase for those drawing the minimum.

The Senate, however, is likely to reverse that decision. It has voted in past years for special minimums of $100 for single people and $150 for couples on the grounds that they need the increase the most. The Senate view has never prevailed in the House.

The committee said some people who get the minimum are former government workers who took jobs in the private economy only long enough to qualify for a minimum Social Security pension atop their government pension check.

A special Social Security program exists for people 77 or over who never qualified for Social Security or any other public benefit. Single persons get $48.30 a month and married couples $72.50. The committee also decided to make the increase for this group 5 per cent.

Many who get that special payment are retired farmers who were too close to retirement to qualify for Social Security when the program was broadened to include farmers and other self-employed people.

The decision on what to do about Social Security payroll taxes was the last one confronting the committee before its massive bill, revamping the Social Security, Medicare and Medicaid and welfare programs, is sent to the Senate floor.

There, 64 senators have announced support for a 20 per cent across-the-board increase for all 28 million Americans who draw monthly Social Security checks.
